Finding

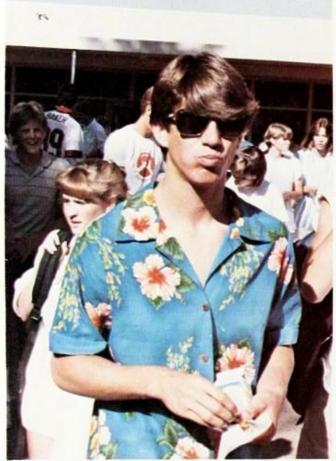

What is a true identity? How can a person express and establish his/her own identity? The possibilities to this question are endless. One of the most common ways to identify someone's identity is by their style of dress.

The jocks and jockettes were often seen in their casual sweatsuits, while the preppies walked around with turned up collars and topsiders on their feet. Aside from the jocks and the preppies, the new wavers and the mods were seen throughout the hallways of San Rafael High School. With their speical haircuts and clothes they certainly made a unique crowd.

It was very hard to go around school without seeing at least twenty skateboards. Skateboarding became a very popular sport during the past year.

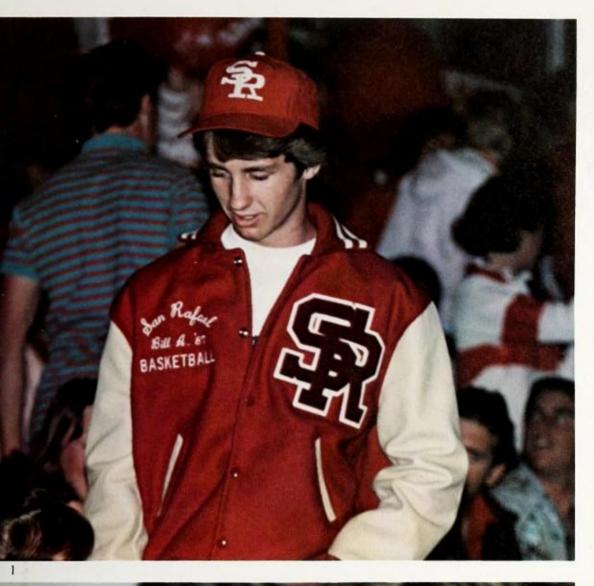

This year was a time for students to express themselves in new and different ways. It's been a year we'll never forget.

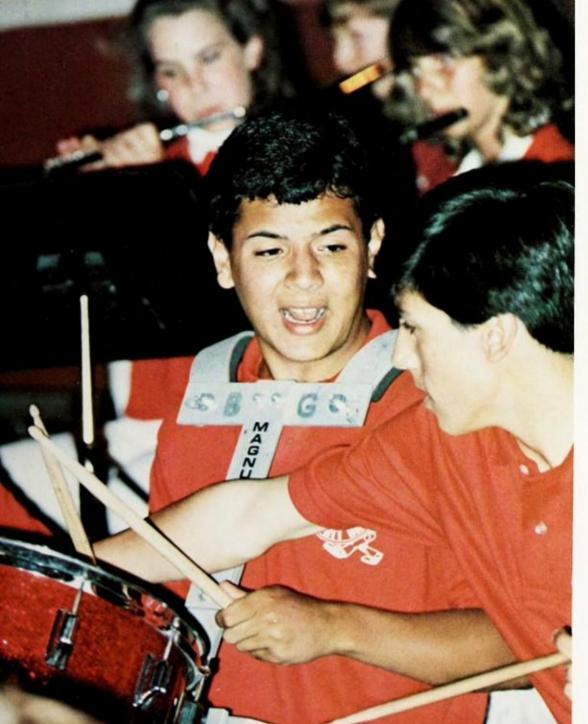

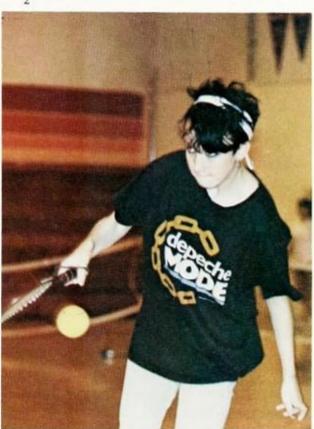

- "Come on guys, SMILE!!"—David Cater and Mike Fedoroff.
- Dressed up for beach day, Dan Levin dreams of sunny Hawaii.
- Showing her school spirit, Kimbi Fye leads the crowd with a bulldog cheer.

- Bill Archer, in his off season, still finds time to support the home team.
- Renaissance man, Steve Arnold, passes by the music patio on his way to the fair.
- "For the last time Adrian, I can't play with your hand in my way!"-Victor Escobedo and Adrian Gutierrez.
- Sybil Chapman demonstrates the proper backhand.

- 2. Seniors, led by Louie Navé, lose to WHOM???
- 3. "Hack off Oliver! Hack off!"-Oliver Arnold & Mark Alders

Throughout the year the students accomplished many difficult goals by working together. From the classroom to the playing field, the students have learned to combine their ideas and come out with a good end product.

In the classroom students were found helping each other on projects or even daily homework. The teachers were always willing to help and work with students who needed extra assistance.

Athletics played a big part in teamwork. Players supported each other in times of defeat and partied with each other in times of victory.

Another aspect of working together was spirit. The students were involved with school spirit. The songleaders, cheer leaders, flag girls, baton twirlers, and mascots spent endless hours practicing and perfecting their techniques to inspire the crowd at the football games.

Clubs spent many lunch periods and numerous hours after school discussing and planning future activities. Club members learned to cooperate and work efficiently while still having fun.

Having Fun

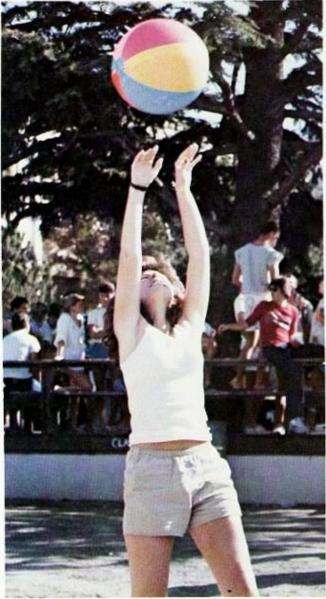

While at school we see each other having fun in many ways. Some people talk with friends or maybe joke about their teachers. Others participate in sports and club activities. There are rallies and spirit days.

At break time you can find people playing hackysack or hanging out by their cars. During lunch time some people play video games across the street at Pinky's or buy a frozen yogurt at Rafael Yogurt.

Not all fun is found at school. After school and on weekends visiting department stores becomes a popular sport for the fashion conscious student and becomes a way to spend free time. Some people put on parties, go to concerts, or sail on the bay. On warm days you can find students at the nearby beach cooling off or just relaxing and catching some rays.

Every San Rafaelite has their own individual way of having fun. This is one of the reasons that it is interesting and exciting to be part of San Rafael High.

- Wade Fisher getting carried away by Michele Prunty and Michele Sanbrailo.
- 2. Molly McGuire has a ball on beach day.
- 3. Monica Thiede and Alexia Pilos pool together.
- 4. Cathy Palka enjoying the local haute cuisine.

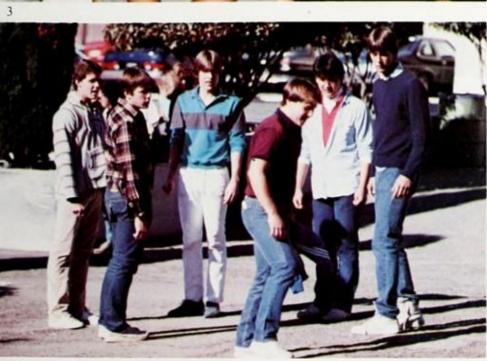

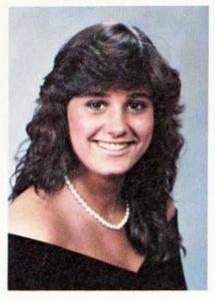

- Ian Stoba plays all night long.
- Nicole Rebsamen and Stacy Ross get wrapped up in things.
- Bob Mook and friends party after hours.
- Melissa Mason, Shana Bagley, and Veda Orlova smile for the camera.
- Hackers hack at break time.

Friendships

Friends were the ones who were always there and accepted you for what you were. They were there for times of celebration. These were the people you chose to spend your time with. Special bonds were created during the school year. For some these were old ties, for others, new ones. Whichever they were, these bonds were never broken. As everyone agreed, friends were something everyone needed and nobody could have done without.

Easing Up

In the last year of High School many seniors took a long desired break from studying and took more of an interest in other things. With all their competency tests, SATs, and ACTs behind them, they could lessen what has been a rough workload the past three years. Seniors usually filled their schedules with non-academic classes, although they sometimes still found themselves cramming for finals.

Seniors were the masterminds of procrastination, always finding a reason to "do it some other time". This is not to say that all seniors put things off, but when for the first time in four years, a person could actually afford to do so, they did.

Shadze Craze

From Vaurnets to Ray Bans, whatever the name was, everyone had a pair. Sunglasses were worn at all times of the day, including before school, break, lunch, and after school. The purpose of these glasses was not only to keep unwanted rays of sunlight out, but to establish one's personality.

Ray Bans were worn mostly by freshmen and sophomores to suit their "mod" style of dress. Vaurnets, as usual, dominated the entire campus as the most worn type of sunglasses. They were worn by all the classes. There were some students who did not participate in the "Shadze Craze" at all.

Most brands of sunglasses came in a variety of colors ranging from black to red. Styles varied from "cat-eyes" to glasses that folded up to the size of one lense.

One factor that kept this a hard fashion to stay with was the price. Depending on the style, Vaurnets ran from $50-$100. The cost of Ray Bans was about $45.

This craze of sunglasses comes and goes.

S.R.H.S.

San Rafael High School completed another very successful year in 1986, overcoming obstacles that it had faced for years. In 1888 when the school opened, there was but one building with a graduating class of five. Today the number of graduates has risen to over 200, and the school has expanded to several buildings.

One of the toughest battles San Rafael High faced in the past four years was the consolidation of San Rafael High School and Terra Linda High School. Just recently in 1984, this problem was temporarily solved. Because neither school was closed, the school will be around for its 100 year anniversary in 1988.

Senioritis

Senior year came a lot faster than one could guess. The last year at school differs for each person. For some it was the final chance to fill college applications and decide which way their lives would go. For others, it was a year of relaxing and enjoying the life of a senior.

Just like all the other classes, seniors were labeled. But the label they received was more like an attitude, a way of life, that developed to an extreme from September to June. This label, the attitude of seniors, could be described as "SENIORITIS". This could be noticed in seniors as early as the first day of school. They were the ones who said, "Hey, it's only the first day of school! We don't do anything anyway, so let's go to the beach!" And they did it. This was senior year. The ability to be chronically late to classes only down the hall from each other. The best excuse one could give was "I don't know!". The inability to rise in the morning without a strong cup of Mrs. Olsen's favorite was common. Early day senior classes could always be found by the aroma of coffee coming from the classroom.

Seniors were also plagued by excessive relaxation. This could strike at any time. In the middle of a test in Government or English, an overwhelming desire to just put one's head down and sleep struck. This may have happened in the earlier three years, but the difference was that the idea didn't seem so off the wall and they did it.

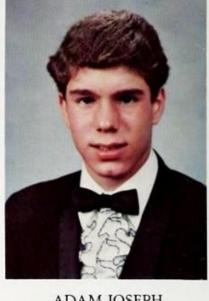

Another aspect of senioritis was the lack of solid classes on their schedules. A senior's schedule resembled a camp activity sheet more than a list of classes, two T.A. classes, an office aid class, and a psychology class where everyone Om'd out all period.

Senior year as a whole crept up on us a lot faster than we expected, but left us with memories that will last us a lifetime.

Individuality

San Rafael High School has always seen many different types of people, styles, and attitudes. There were the basic "jocks", "mods", "new wavers", personal styles and even a few "preppies" scattered here and there. People held their own attitudes and view points along with their styles. These many sided students were openly accepted at S.R.H.S.. It has always been a school of diversity, in personalities, styles, or otherwise.

"After three years of jog-athons, car washes and candy sales, one would think the enthusiasm would decrease", said Co-President Mark Mynhier. "That wasn't the case with the class of '86."

This year's senior class raised enough money to have a junior prom and still have a successful senior ball. Associated Student Body President Robert Read described the ASB as"a group of diverse, yet hard-working people. We had a lot of fun and we also accomplished a lot." Senior Class Representitive Erica Avon summed it up by saying, "We're looking forward to the future that awaits us, but we will always remember our four years at San Rafael High."

Holding the position of a senior officer gave one the chance to talk to his classmates individually about class activities. The officers created an enjoyable year that would be memorable for everyone.

The Ones to W•A•T•C•H

People

The People of San Rafael came in all shapes and sizes. There was no way to classify those who walked through the halls of S.R.H.S.. Each person fit into his own niche by way of dress, hairstyle, likes in music, sports, I.Q., or income. One way to identify all who attended S.R. was by classes.

The Junior class was fairly easy to recognize. They were the ones who had grown in size and mind. They were far more intellectually mature and capable of taking on responsibility. They were the ones who were starting to take a closer look at their futures. They were the seniors of tomorrow. They were the class of 1987.

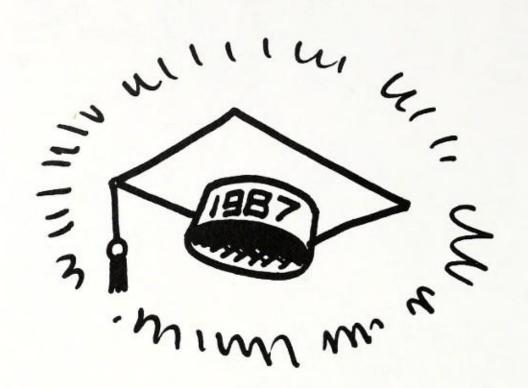

As for sophomores, the previous years' freshmen, they were very conservative and a much closer class. They were the ones awaiting the keys to the car. They also realized that in order to accomplish their goals, they couldn't always save schoolwork for the last moment. The Centennial Class of 1988 looked toward a bright future.

The freshmen's year was filled with exciting and sometimes frightening and new experiences. Starting a new school and meeting new people wasn't always easy. No matter what any upper classmen said, everyone went through freshmen year once, maybe twice.

The most important year in high school is the junior year. This is a time when students really have to put all of their efforts and time into their schoolwork.

By that time many of the juniors have matured a lot from their sophomore year. They realize that they only have one more year to go before they are off to college.

Recognizing the new responsibilities that are ahead for them, the juniors set high goals in order to accomplish the needed skills for the future.

Junior Interrogation

The Junior Class was a very individual class in itself. Everybody seemed to like something different. I interviewed some juniors using everyday, average questions. The answers I received on the most part weren't normal. Here are some of the answers I received:

What are some of your slang terms? ALGE-BRAAAY!!!-ANDIS LINDBERGS

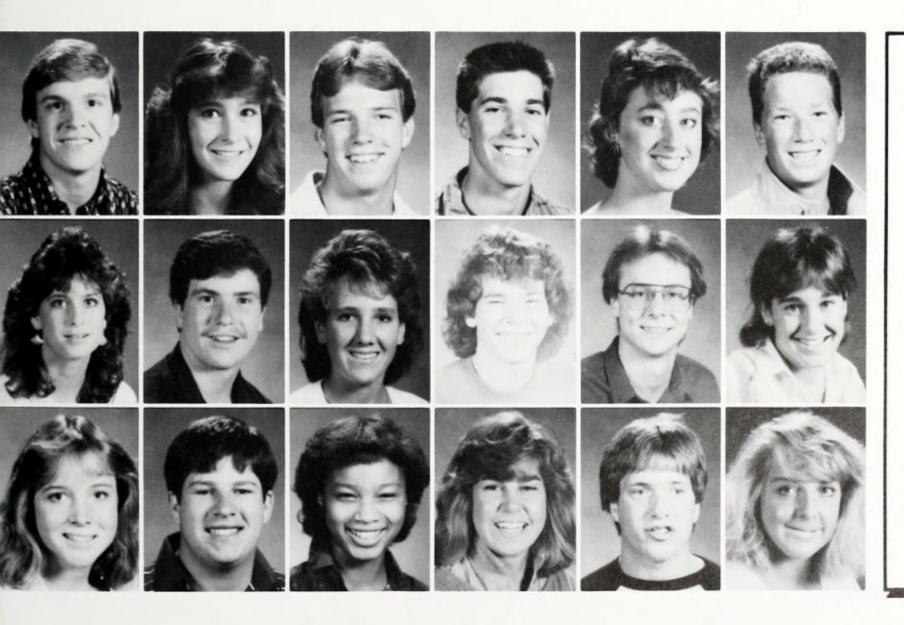

Who's your favorite teacher? Tom Truchan, he's mellow.-SCOTT EISENBERG

What is your favorite piece of clothing to wear? Scarves, to hide Dracula's marks on my neck.- ANNIKA SALOMONSSON

What do you like to do on weekends? Pierce my ears, and eat cookies from Mrs. Fields.-HELEN BRAAKMEN

What is the worst thing about being a junior? It's my last year to drool over cute senior guys!!!-FONTAINE SEGERQUIST

As you can see, the Junior Class is quite . . . aaa . . . different, shall we say. Even though I'm a senior, I have to admit that they are pretty good for a Junior Class.-PAUL SPITALE

The Grr-owling

The bell rang. "Oh, thank you God!" I looked up at the clock as my stomach growled to remind me that it was time to face the dreaded line of . . . the snack bar. I consoled my stomach while I searched through my pockets for spare change. I found a dollar; I was excited! Now, if I could only find twenty more cents my dream would come true!

So there I stood, for what seemed to be an eternity, turned out to be an extended break, which later turned into extended periods, which later turned into an extended day, which . . . "Excuse me, can I help you?" a voice said that broke my train of thought. I ordered an apple fritter and a hot chocolate. The snack bar window closed, the bell rang, and my hunger pangs were satisfied. Amen.

On Their Way

Last year was no exception to each class being labeled. The seniors, as always, received SEN-IORITIS. The freshmen were lost in the GAR-BAGE. The juniors were faced with one more year and then ... graduation caps. Among all this confusion, what happened to the sophomores? They were no longer labeled with freshmenitis, but the immenence of graduation was not upon them. So what were they? Skateboarders?, which was what many people saw, but not a fair representation of the class. As ninth graders, they were frightened, terrorized by upperclassmen and rarely spoken to. The glory of juniorhood (pre-senior) seemed years away. So where were they in the scheme of things? Not wild or scared, or on the loose, but they were in a period of transition. This year was the year people tried to find out who they were, who their friends were, and maybe what they would do with their lives.

By the time almost two years were complete, one no longer had to stop and think, was this the right period? The area and combination of the hall and P.E. locks were finally locked in their memories. The classes in the school no longer seemed like a metropolis dropped in their laps. Frienldy hellos were exchanged in the halls between casual, everyday acquaintances, and maybe even a nice teacher or two. The area once scoped on during break was down pat and lunchtime activities were on a regular pattern.

The second year brought with it comfort, searching, hopefullness and maybe, even a place in the overall scheme of things. Among wild, loose, and scared, could they have been finally on their way?

Searching for their identities while "breaking" are Jung Lee and friends.

FROSH TRAINING

The freshmen year was made even more enjoyable by the Physical Education Department. It seemed that a program was developed to make those darling dears regret that they ever stepped foot on S.R.H.S. soil.

A new program was developed to make the freshmen more physically fit. Besides imprinting their running shoes on the track of the Miller Field, they also had a splash in the S.R. swimming pool. Whether they were running or swimming laps, the whistle would soon blow. With a sigh of relief they raced to their locker room and to their next class. This new program seemed to work; they all hated it.

TRENDS

The freshmen class this year brought many new and exciting trends as well as faces. Bermuda shorts were not uncommon all year round, nor were loud Hawiian shirts. Hair, on the other hand, was worn long on top with the sides and the back shaved, "surfer style".

There were "breakers", "mods" and last but not least the "jock preppies". Along with these different groups came different music. Most listened to the "Top 10" and other popular music such as, "Depeche Mode", "Simple Minds" and "Dire Straits". Of course there were always the "rockers" who listened to "Metallica" or "Scorpions".

Even though all these kids listened to different music and dressed differently, they remembered this past year at S.R.H.S., thought back positively and said my freshman yearI'm glad it's over!?!"

New Leaders of 1986

The freshman class officers of '85 and '86 consisted of President Paula March with Representatives Brady Callahan and Devora Kanter. The year was a great beginning for the class of 1989. "We all pulled together to make the year a successful one," said Brady Callahan. The officers were faced with many new difficulties that accompanied the first year of high school. This past year's successful events definitely outweighed the problems that the newest freshmen officers had to face.

The Ones To W•A•T•C•H

The life of a student usually begins with the morning rush. The rush to the shower, the rush to school, and the rush to the first class. However the student chose to get to school they always, or at least most of the time, made it before the tardy bell.

Throughout the week students ran into all sorts of obstacles to overcome. Whether it was homework or a test in all their classes on one day. There was always one thing that helped the students tough out the week, that was Friday. Friday meant the beginning of the weekend. The weekend meant Fun! Fun meant

The school always had some sort of activity planned whether it was a rally, or a game, a dance, the Cavalcade, or the spring musical. Students always came out in full spirit to see their school perform.

Do something extremely exciting this summer, next year will counteract it. 1 Oh, by He way, I never got the chance to tell you - you looked really nice at Sr. Ball. Stay Safe!

HOMECOMING

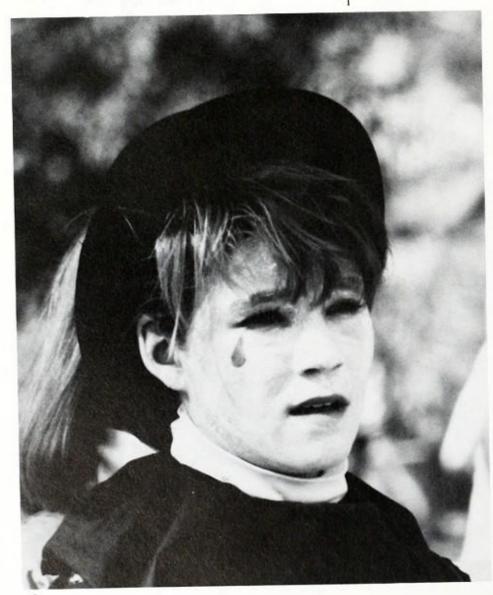

The Week Reviewed

Homecoming week was a time of excitment, anticipation, and school spirit. All the classes participated in various spirit days ranging from Class Day to Formal Day, and Red and White Day to costumes on Halloween. Perhaps the most spirited day was Thursday, Halloween. San Rafael saw the likes of the infamous Dracula, soldiers, clowns, and an unidentified masked man.

The week of Homecoming showed the untapped spirit of many which excelled to new heights by Fridays game. The Week was viewed by all, a tremendous success.

March to VICTORY

The 85-86 Homecoming Parade was one of the highlights of the year. The parade started at Falkirk parking lot, proceded down 4th. Street, and finally ended at the Miller Football Field. All the floats exhibited creativity, but only one could win first place.

The years' winner went to the Centennial Class of '88. In the club division, the French Club came away with first place. The spirit continued throughout the evening with the Bulldogs stomping over the Redwood Giants with a final score of 26-19.

The Master of Ceremonies, Bob Dietz, introduced the Royal Court individually as they drove by. The moment everyone had been waiting for was upon us. As the M.C. opened the envelope, the crowns went to Prince Bob Archer and Princess Cara Nugent.

King Bob Archer participated in basketball since his freshman year here at San Rafael High School. He has also been a C.S.F., member for all four years. He received a North Coast Section Scholar Award, and he was Director of Elections during his senior year.

Queen Cara Nugent has been involved in many school-related activities such as sports and cheerleading. During her senior year she was Director of Spirit and Rally Committee Chair person. She also won a Scholar Athletic Award during her junior year.

Spirit Soars

Spirit at San Rafael High School greatly improved this year. Whether from the stands or the track, the sounds of enthusiasm could be heard. Being a cheerleader meant involving the crowd. The main purpose of cheerleading was to spread spirit throughout the school. This years' spirit groups encountered many changes. But through it all, they remained spirited.

Spirit is one thing which San Rafael High School did not lack. The songleaders, baton twirlers, and flag team inspired everyone's spirit during rallies for the upcoming football and basketball games. They worked many hours during break, lunch, and after school to perfect their routines.

Being one of the spiritleaders at San Rafael High was more than just fun and games. They provided entertainment for all, parents, students, and faculty.

Performing at rallies and games the cheerleaders not only inspired the crowd and boosed the morale of the school, but most important energized the team. Try-outs were held prior to the season and a select few were chosen. Due to a lact of students trying out for J.V. Yell, only 6 girls we chosen. The Varsity and Frosh squads included girls a piece who were required to maintain a certa G.P.A. and follow standards set to represent S.R.H.S. ATTENDANCE ONE

This is a based on a true story. All names have been changed for the protection of those involved.

- The Place: San Rafael High

- The Time: Fourth period English Class

A student has just been injured and now has to face the . . . ATTENDANCE ZONE . . . (music-). From the student's point of view:

'It all started in my fourth period English class

... I had let a friend borrow a pencil so he could do the assignment. We were supposed to write on American heroes. I wrote it on the Brady Bunch.

"Five minutes before the period would be over, my friend said 'Hey Dude!' I looked over and he threw me the pencil. I raised my hand as if to catch it. The next thing I saw was blood and a pencil embedded into my hand standing perpendicular. I asked to be excused.

"I walked down the newly cleaned hallway leaving a trail of blood. I finally reached the doors of the A.D. building. I opened the door leaving smeared blood stains as I struggled to the . . . Attendance Office.

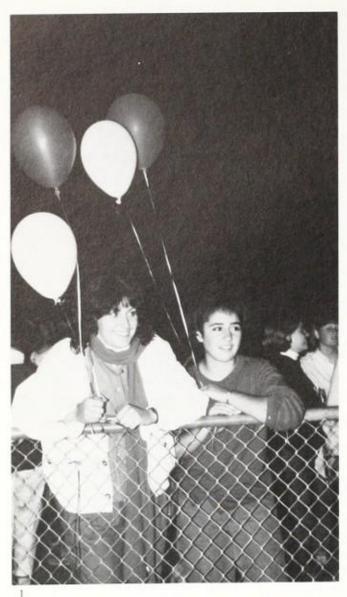

"So there I was clawing my my way to the . . . Attendance Office. I could barely walk, I threw my body over the half door and called for Mrs. Horton. 'Mrs. Horton, I'm dying! Can I go home?' Mrs. Horton looked at me. I was white as a sheet and blood was everywhere. I must have lost at least two pints of blood. (The pencil was still standing, but I wasn't.) I was lying on the ground. Mrs. Horton spoke those dreaded words.. 'Well I can't let you leave until a parent or guardian can give permission for you to leave campus.'

"In a weak voice I asked," Can I use the phone?" Sure,' she said with a smile and handed me the phone. The first thing I did was call my mom's office. My fingers shook as I dialed her number with the pencil in my way. The phone rang twice before a voice answered, 'Hello, Suicide Prevention Center, please Hold.' I'm dying and they put me on hold, I couldn't believe it! After a few minutes the voice came on again. 'Hello, Can I help you?' 'Yes is, my (mother's name) there?' I asked, 'Um, no she isn't. She doesn't work today,' The voice said. "Oh Thank You."

"Well my life was just great! So then I called home, hoping Mom would be there. I let the phone ring seven times, no answer. I called my Dad, who was out to lunch. I wasn't going to call my grandparents, they would probably have panicked. I thought a while. There was no one I could call; I was alone in this world; I was still bleeding and the pencil was still standing. I probably had graphite poisoning, but they didn't care..."

"That phone was my last hope and ... in the middle of my deep depression Mrs. Horton interrupted my thoughts... 'If you want I can give you a pass back to class, and how about a bandaid for your hand?' I looked at the ceiling and looked at Mrs. Horton who was smiling. I took the pass and the bandaid and hoped tomorrow would be a better day. As I headed back to class I heard Three bells ringing which usually meant they needed the janitor for something ..."

THE CAMPIE

The Cavalcade is an annual event which takes place each year in December. During this occasion students and teachers combine their talents to produce a show. This year it lasted approximately two hours. The performers put on a variety of different acts. They ranged from "The Hillbillies" to classical music and everything in between. Even teachers had spirit which made the audience cheer.

As usual Tom Truchan organized the whole thing and did a very good job. They made about $400 to $500.

Victor Escobedo, Mike Farias and Tom Truchan were the Masters of Ceremony. They enchanted the audience with their funny jokes, and in the end Victor finally learned to count. All in all it was a learning experience which provided entertainment for all.

San Rafael High School students were very lucky this year to be able to enjoy the performances by two fine actors from the Berkeley Shakespeare Festival. They presented scenes from ROMEO AND JULIET, THE TAMING OF THE SHREW and they gave the audience a taste of Shakespeare with a modern interpretation of rhythm and dress in A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM. The two actors were able to make it to S.R.H.S. twice this year so that almost everyone was able to see them perform.

HOLIDAY FAIRE

The smell of delicious hot food and warm apple cider was floating out of the cafeteria doors. There were faint sounds of Christmas Carols in the background and people were everywhere. These were the sights, sounds, and smells of the '85-'86 Holiday Faire. There were many different booths to look at and a few fortunate people were able to have their picture taken with that famous man dressed in the red suit. All in all the event turned out to be very profitable and everyone had a good time.

HOLIDAY BEAT

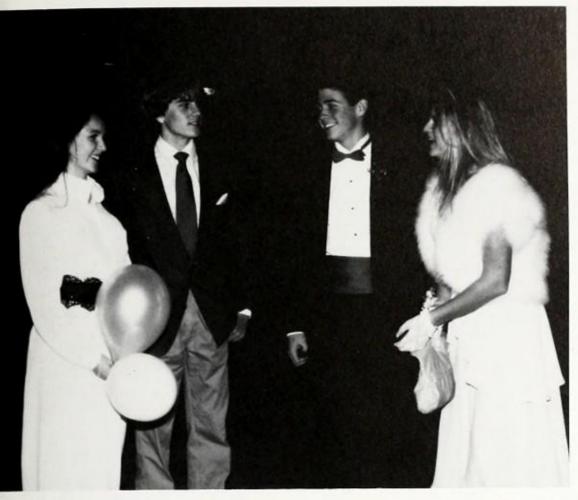

Music played, people danced, couples had their photos taken. This was the scene of the 1985 Winter Formal Dance. The annual December dance was held in the gym as usual, accompanied by a D.J. and a professional photographer. The dance was open to all classes which made it a special event because it was unlike that of the Senior Ball and Junior Prom. This past year the gym was lightly decorated with silver stars and balloons. The atmosphere was festive and everyone had a good time. All in all, the Winter Formal of 1985 was a huge success that left eveyone with fond memories of an exciting night.

Discovering Tradition

This year the talented students of S.R.H.S. put on the traditional musical "Fiddler on the Roof." The cast put in long hours after school and in the evenings to perfect every scene and dance number. The actors and actresses were concerned with making the musical as realistic as they could. Besides learning their lines, they took the time and read up on the lifestyles of the early nineteen hundreds.

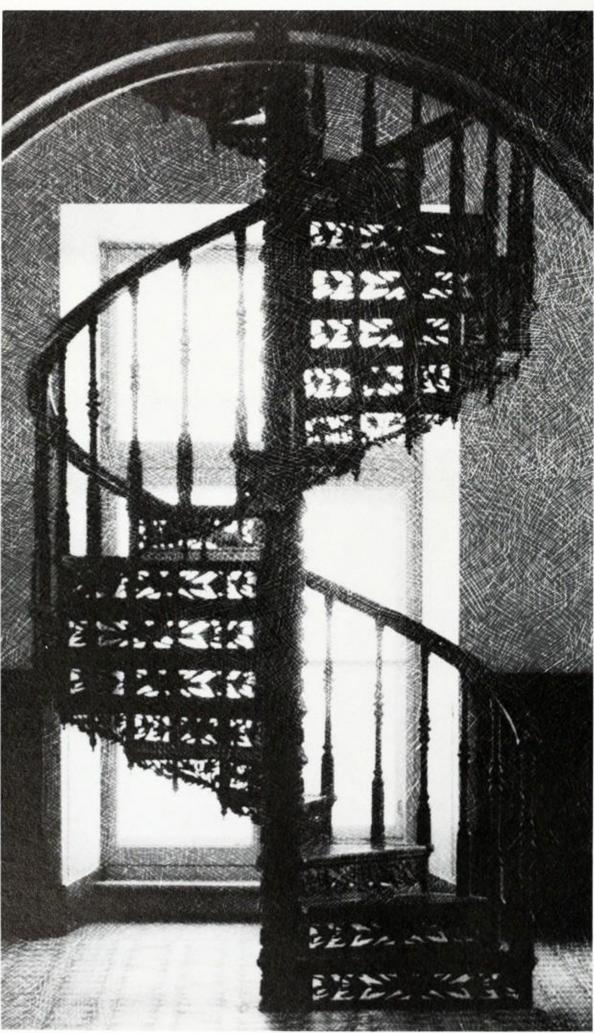

reaking all known traditions, Hodel, Kara DuBois, is seen dancing ith Perchik, Scott Winner.

CREATING TO

One Night's Dream

I should be walking along the beach, after a mid night supper in a spring meadow, and the wate should be lapping gently, at our feet, wetting you pant cuffs, and making my thin fabric dress cling to the outline of my legs.

And our hands should be clasped together, making our rhythm and energy beat as one. And we should turn and stop and look deep into each other's eye seeing thour souls. And as we kiss, feel the excit ment, and love pass through us like a bolt of lightning, leaving us breathless.

And I would be feeling all of these things, doing a of these things, if only you were here with me.

One Dark Night

I heard the rustless,
Of the trees.
I heard the words,
Spoken, "Please"
I see the devil,
In sisguise.
I see the pain,
In her eyes.
I feel the wind,
Blowing through my hair.
I feel the blindman's
Stony stare.

Knowing where you are.
As to not ask where,

Perfectly slipping through,
The cold water

The Wanderer

Walking down the beach, Alone at night. The crashing of waves to teach, The wanderer of fright. One small tide, Is enough to drown you out. Fill your lungs with water, Your's is a losing bout. For the wanderer there alone Maybe he wants to die, Who could have known. His friends turned on him And caused the wanderer To take his last swim, And we all know the chances Of survival are very slim. If we took a voyage with his soul At the brink of death Feeling his body fall down the hole. For who is to know of life after death The dying itself And taking your last breath. Ask the wander er her could know For he is an apparition, A soul in hell Sent back to earth To die again and again Awaiting the rebirth, Of wandering minds of men Who will also walk the beach And die again.

OUTSTANDING AIR-BAND

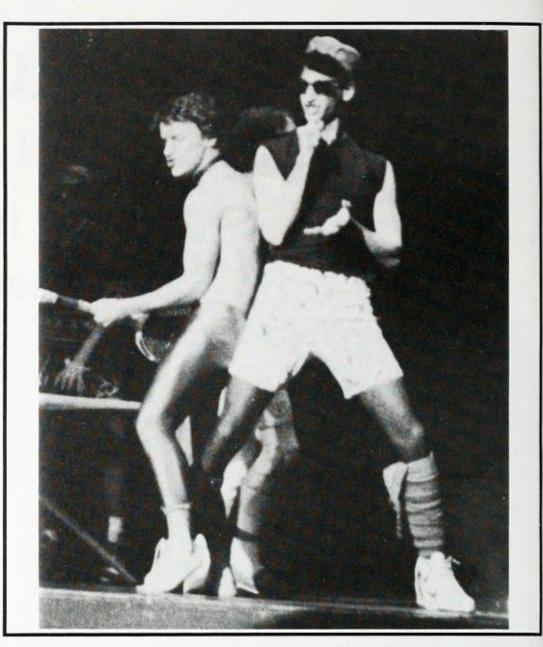

On May 6th 1988, there were people walking like Egyptians, Going Back to Cali, protesting white lines, and some were just BAD. It was obviously the 1988 Centennial Air Band contest. The night started with an outstanding performance by the student teachers. This was enough to satisfy the crowd, but it was only the beginning. "RUN TFC" took us Back to Cali, and followed up with Star Treking- which were very funnny well done skits. "THREE JERKS AND A SQUIRT," followed with I Want Candy ,and the Super Bowl Shuffle, were a big hit Friday. "MALICIOUS ANKLEBITERS' gave everyone a run for their money with Soul Man, and Brickhouse. This all girl team was very organized, very creative aand well put together. The question for this night was "CAN YOU DIG IT?" This band did a Bad-Celebration mix, and then came out with a mix for all tastes. "WET PAINT" did a song against drugs, White Lines, and If You Want My Body. Some of the best dancing was dsplayed in this well rehearsed act. "RUN TFC" took 3rd, "MALICIOUS ANKLEBITERS" recieved second, and "CAN YOU DIG IT?" conquered first place. "This was the best Air-Band ever." Ted Harding, co-host with Scott Stewart said. And everyone surely agreed.

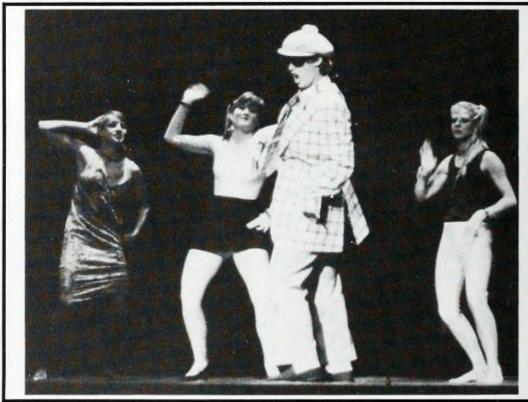

Struttin' their stuff are "Three Jerks and a Squirt" starring Tiffany Horton, Samantha Moulin, Kristin DeCloux, and Angel Hasse.

Spring Turnabout Dance

The first annual Spring Turnabout was held this year on April 16th. Due to the success of the formal the Junior class is now one small step closer to a spectacular senior ball.

The uniqueness of this formal is that the girls were expected to invite, and pay for, the guys. The idea was not an "original", but it was a first to San Rafael High. It was a typical evening with forgotten corsages, late limos, run nylons, and people late for dinner reservations. Eventually whether plans ran smoothly or not, everyone made it to the dance. The decorated gym, filled with balloons, set a perfect scene for the assortment of music played by the D.J. The majority of the people burned off their dinner calories by dancing the night away. The bathroom were always busy with a hurried hustle and bustle of guys and girls primping themselves for their pictures, and the flowery background gave a feeling of springtime.

"Most guys only have one date, but I'm special." Danielle Ryssmus, Chris Collins, Catheren Ditman, Jennie Mahoney.

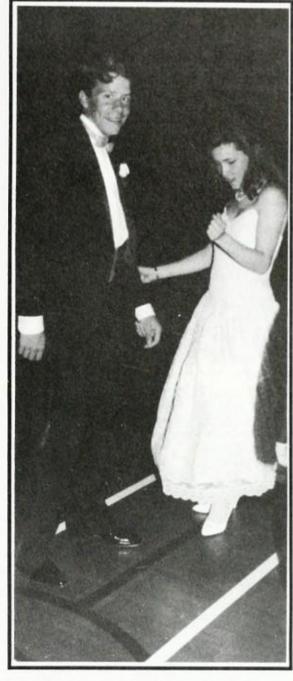

"Let's hurry Harry before the clock strikes midnight" says Keisa Keelen.

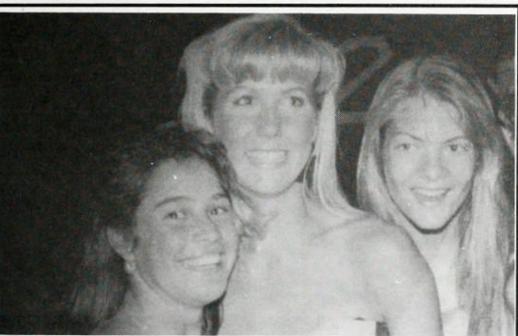

"Pictures? Dinner was much more than we expected!" - Lauren Goodman, Francine Sephapor, Josh McClung, Miguel Escebedo.

4 TURN-ABOUT

"Nope! Nope! I'm not going to dance ." says Pat Bentivengia to Melinda Thomhill.

"C'mon Peter Epinachin, let's boogie!" says Melody Porteous.

VARSITY BASEBALL

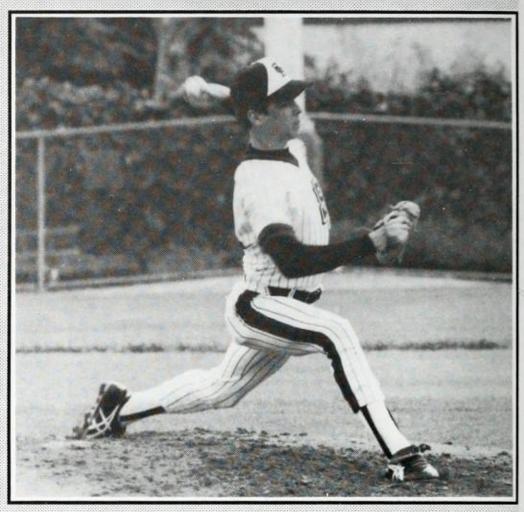

The 1988 Varsity Baseball Team, coached by Mike Brusati, Jimmy McCarthy, and manager Keith Fraiser began the season with great hopes of an M.C.A.L. championship. Playing in a league with a very tight race in every game we had our opportunities, but the Bulldogs were plagued with bad luck. A lack of hitting, bad luck, and the loss of two key players proved to be enough to keep the Bulldogs out of the playoffs.

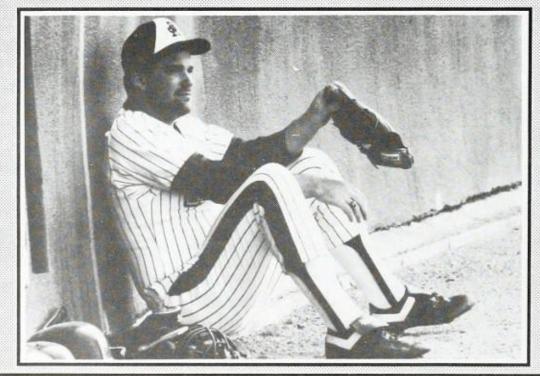

With an extremely well balanced line-up, the team had no superstars, each player had equal importance to the ballclub as a whole.

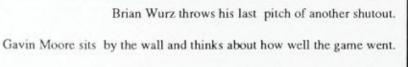

Aaron Lofrano had an outstanding season behind the plate. Brian Wurz continued to make the play a 3rd. Sophomore Scott Sellers and Shane Grevin balanced the middle of the infield. Junior Greg Livengood anchored 1st base, while Pat B. Roberto Castillo, Joe Ford, Andy Capdarest and Brian Chattard did the work in the outfield.

Other key players include Sean Lehman and Grey Truex. The pitching duties were split up fairly evenly between Dirk Fuller, Milt Hymas and Robert Castillo. While Dino Monterello and Gavin Moore platooned as designated hitter.

"Hopefully the players returning next year will learn from our mistakes this year, and play to their potential."

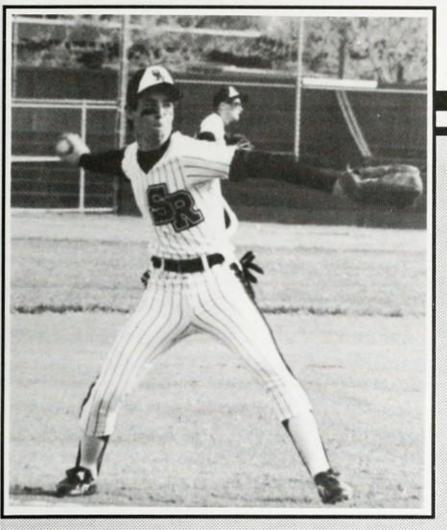

Greg Livengood skillfully steals another base.

THE TOP DAWGS

Currently in third place, San Rafael's 1988 Varsity Softball has a league record of 13 wins and 3 losses. The team has survived some injuries and illnesses yet has performed well despite these setbacks.

Since the beginning of the Softball league the team has been either MCAL Champions or co-Champions for ten out of the eleven years. The team has won the North Coast Section (NCS) Champship in 1q981 and 1983.

Overall, the team has a record of 201 wins and 45 losses. The credit for this outstanding record and list of acheivements goes to the dedicated players, who have worked hard over the years, and Joe Castronovo, who helped start the league program and has been the only San Rafael Coach since the program begun as a MCAL sport in 1978.

Since then the MCAL softball program has developed into a strong league. In past years no oone has matched up to SR's team strength. Recently Novato and San Marin have been very tough competition for the team. We will most likely play these teams in the MCAL playoffs. Let's all hope the SR girls keep up that winning tradition.

J. V. SOFTBALL

A new & exciting twist was added to the girl's softball league this year. A Junior Varsity team replaced the Frosh-Soph team. This rule alloted for a limited number of Juniors to play on the team. Along with making it easier for the team to carpool to games, the older players tried to seta veteren example to the rest of team.

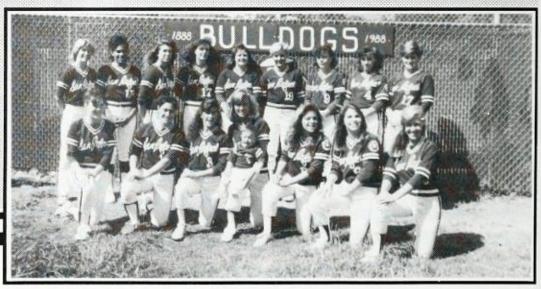

Although the Junior Dawgs were plagued with injuries and untimely departures from the team, the girls managed to keep within the top three competitiors. The success of the Dawgs is given in part to the skilled coaching of Sue Anderon and assistants Stephanie Kirby and Steve Anderson.

When it came right down to that split second decision of what to do, Sue's constant drilling came through in the minds of the players; and the situation usually turned out in favor of the Dawgs. The season consisted of long and hard practices, challenging umpires, rained out games, and most of all smashing victories for the Dawgs. All of the team members agree that along with their own companionship, the season was made a bit brighter with the addiction of player number 1/2, Cory - the coach's baby girl.

J.V BASEBALL

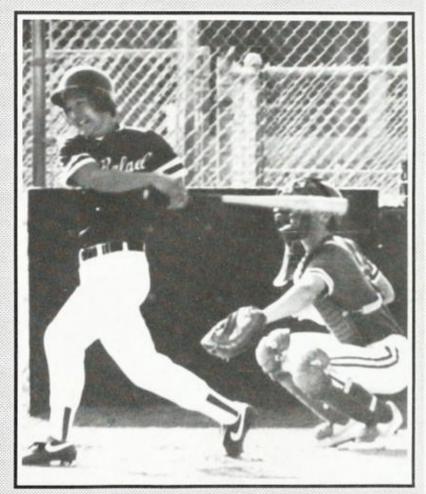

This years Frosh-Soph baseball team came into the season with high expectations. The team was an experienced one with 8 returning players as well as 8 new members. The season started out very successfully until the M.C.A.L rolled around. The team started the season with wins over Tam and Terra Linda, the season went into a skid losing 5 of their next 9 games. With one game remaining in the season, the team had an 8-5 league record, with an overall 15-8 mark.

The team consisted of only five freshmen- they were Bobby Marcucci, Brian Faul, Gino Picardo, Mark Warren, and Josh Ganger. The Sophomores were led by Chris Collins, along with Jose Venegas, Kirk Hansen, Mike Brovelli, Elijah Henley, Jesse ortiz, Jeff Klien, Jeff Kim, Dan Parnow, Kevin Healy, and injured Stein Skaar.

SWIMMING-DIVING

The timers were set. The gun was shot. Instantly the athletes dove off the starting blocks. The six sleek bodies moved through the water, San Rafael pulled ahead. No, it wasn't Jaws, it was a San Rafael swimmer. The swimmer made it to the wall with her best time. James McPhail and Susie Dodd, San Rafael's honorable coaches, cheered on.

The swim team was lucky to have two new devoted swim trainers this year- James McPhail coaching the boys, and S usie Dodd, coaching the girls.

The girls team was larger than the boys, the boys were just as successful. Captains, David Walther, Ted Harding, Jessica Taekman, and Erika Masak helped create spirit in the swim team.

The San Rafael High Swim-A-Thon raised $10,000 for needed pool repairs, and went far beyond the imagination of the team. Some students camped out in tents or stayed up 24 hours to show their enthusiasm.

TRACK & FIELD

The man with the orange sleeve holding the gun quickly approached the line and said "Ladies and gentlemen...I'll give you two commands - on your mark..set..and then the gun.. all right - good luck and stand tall..."

Adrenalin, anticipation, and fear suddenly hit the group of runners. Stop watches gripped and awaited the gun with anticipation. The run went off, "Bang!" and their race began around the 440 yards of the most infinite of foot paths. In 2 hours these races will be over. Night joggers will come out and try to recapture the glory of the dried sweat and pain caused by the trials of the many miles of the San Rafael track team.

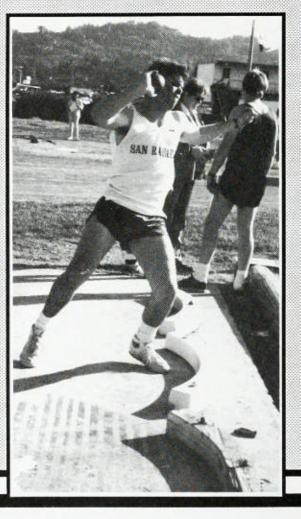

Due to an unusal exhibition of determination and dedication during the off-season our teams coached by Ron Newstatt and Bill Granados showed talent and achievement throughout the season. This is where the leaders of the team (P. Mankin, H. Schultz, M Sellars, C Allen, N Heinzel, B LOdge, R. Mills, and K Riley) should be mentioned. They were invaluable to our teams MCAL standing but they weren't the entire team. There were many other athletes who maybe weren't born with as much talent but did have the same will to win (or at least P.R.) as anybody. Those who didn't make it to the N.C.S. motivated those who did. The back-bone of the team was where the true inspirations and dreams were made. The spirit of the individuals came together and made the races and workouts, worth running for everyone.

This past season was a learning experience for the Centennial Varsity Girl's Soccer Team. With a new coach, Sandi Panahi and a small number of girls to work with, we had a fun season. Everyone worked hard & even though some people left the team, we had some new members join the team half way through the season. We had a relatively young team with one third of it consisting of freshmen, Sasha Davies, and three sophomores, Elena Worley, Sylla McClellan, and Carmina Crittendin. We had a tough season but with one tie, we proved that we weren't going to lose every game.

The Tradition Continues

Presenting the 1987-88 Centennial Year Frosh/Soph Girl's Soccer Team. All we had to begin with were two sophomores with previous soccer experience. The rest were ninth graders with minimum amounts of skill. Coach Frank Archibald gave the team the edge and skill essential for the making of a competitive team. A little before half way through the season, Varsity Soccer players Brady Callahan & Miguel Escobedo added to the cause of capturing the team's first win. After a number of ties and close loses, san Rafael's golden girls got their first win, only to win again the following game. "It was so much fun!" said Hannah Westmoreland, and that word "fun", was what made the difference for us.

GOLF

The 1988 golf season began with a new coach, new young faces, and new enthusiasm. After getting acquainted with one another, the team members looked forward to one thing - having a good time. Led by returning veterans Javier Soto Chavez, Jonas Mentjox, and Brian Wood, the team succeeded in playing quite a few nice rounds. With new additions (and no preservatives) such as Matt Berry & Kirk Wodell there was an interesting mixture of rookies & veterans. Other players included Marc Conn, Rennie Cameron, Dave Evans and Aaron Hill. Since the team got along rather well, not many grey hairs were produced when a putt was missed by an inch or two. Just a few loud yells, But at least we could laugh most of the time and say "Well, that's a peach." When the season began, scores were not perfectly representative of the players efforts. About 90% of the shots were good enough for the Masters but the other shots had a fatal attraction to bodies of water. Everyone had great & bad days in golf just like everyone else. That's how the game works.

TENNIS

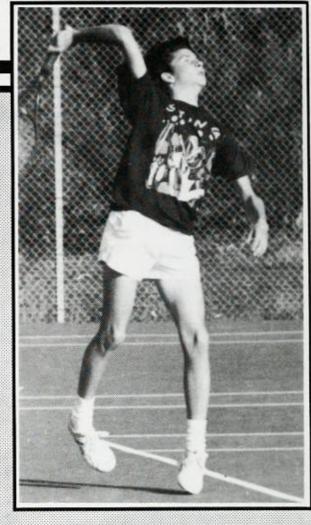

Despite the loss of key players at the end of the 1987 season, the tennis team came back strong with a young team. Sammy Ho is the only senior on the team. The rest of the team is comprised mostly of sophomores and juniors with a few freshmen.

During the pre-season matches the team looked as if it was gearing up for a good season. Then with the loss of key player Alex Bolotsky due to injury, the team was badly weakened.

The team started the season off with a surprising upset victory against Novato. Since the team has played quite inconsistently being unable to win the five individual matches necessary for a team win. Although the team's record doesn't appear to be great, the tennis team had many close matches which could have gone either way.

The tennis team is looking forward to a promising season next year, only losing one player. Next year's team will be more experienced and headed by a handful of veterans.

The City By the Bay

San Rafael is a City of beautiful views and land scapes. There are all kinds of things to do, places to go and people to see. We are fortunate to live in such surroundings; the Headlands, Stinson Beach, Muir Woods, Point Reyes and Mt. Tam.

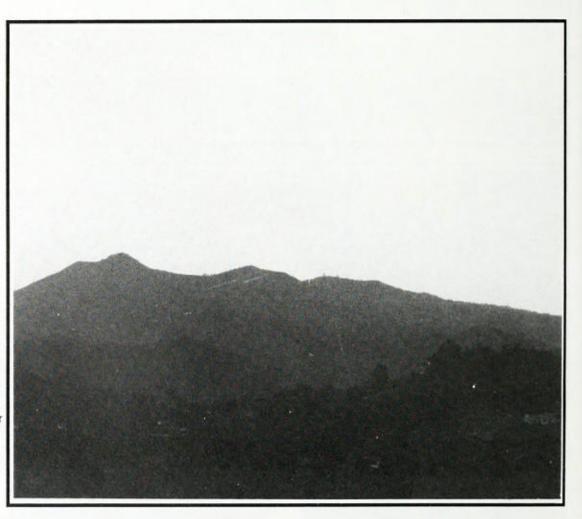

Playing hacky-sack, sailing, hiking, cycling, and let's not forget Marin's favorite-shopping, are just a few of the things to be done. All these activities contribute to our pride of being a part of San Rafael- A city by the Bay.

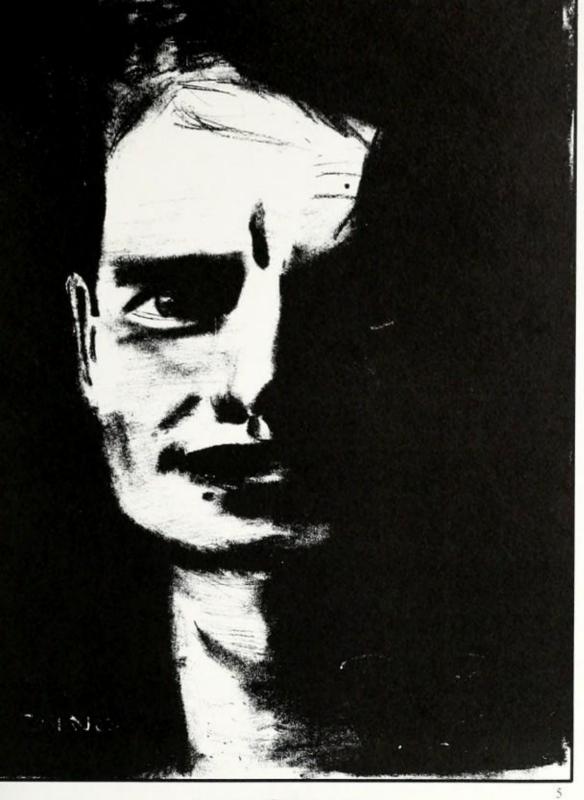

The 50 year old Golden Gate Bridge is a youngster compared to our 100 year old school.

My Best Friend

Whenever I need a friend, You always seem to be there, You help me with my problems, And our joys together we share, I can't imagine life, Without a friend like you. Once we get together, We are the invincible two. All the fun, I've shared with you, Can never be replaced. Together we've had many good times, And conquered the problems we've had to face. So I want you to know, That I am always here. If you ever need a friend, To make your thoughts clear. Sports

What are sports all about? MARK MYH-NEIR, senior and a top athlete, says, "Even though sports are competetive, you still are able to have fun." That's the important thing, having fun.

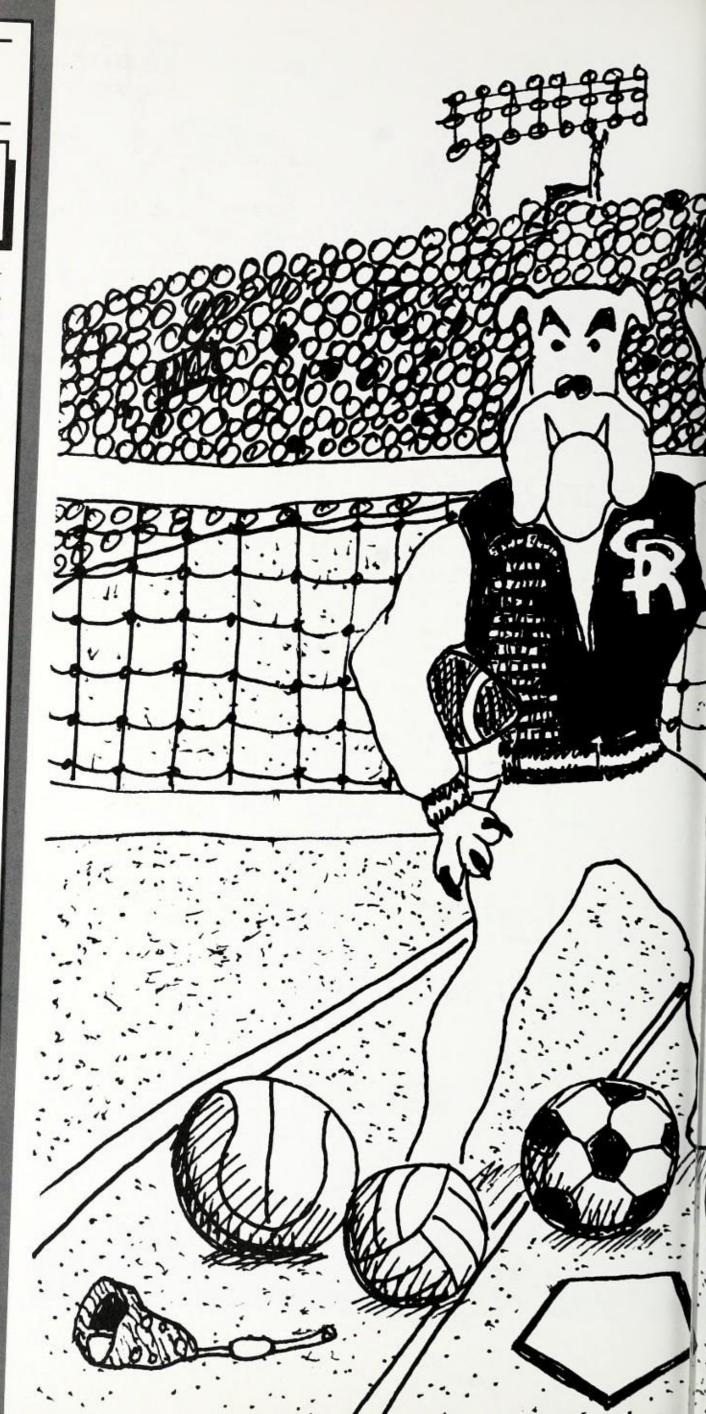

Though the athletes at San Rafael take their sports seriously, they like to have fun while they're out there on the football field, the basketball court, or in the pool. All-around athlete ROSANNE FAUL says, "If you don't have dedication and determination, you won't achieve your goals." Water polo player and swimmer CHRIS HANZLIK says, "It takes a lot of dedication and work."

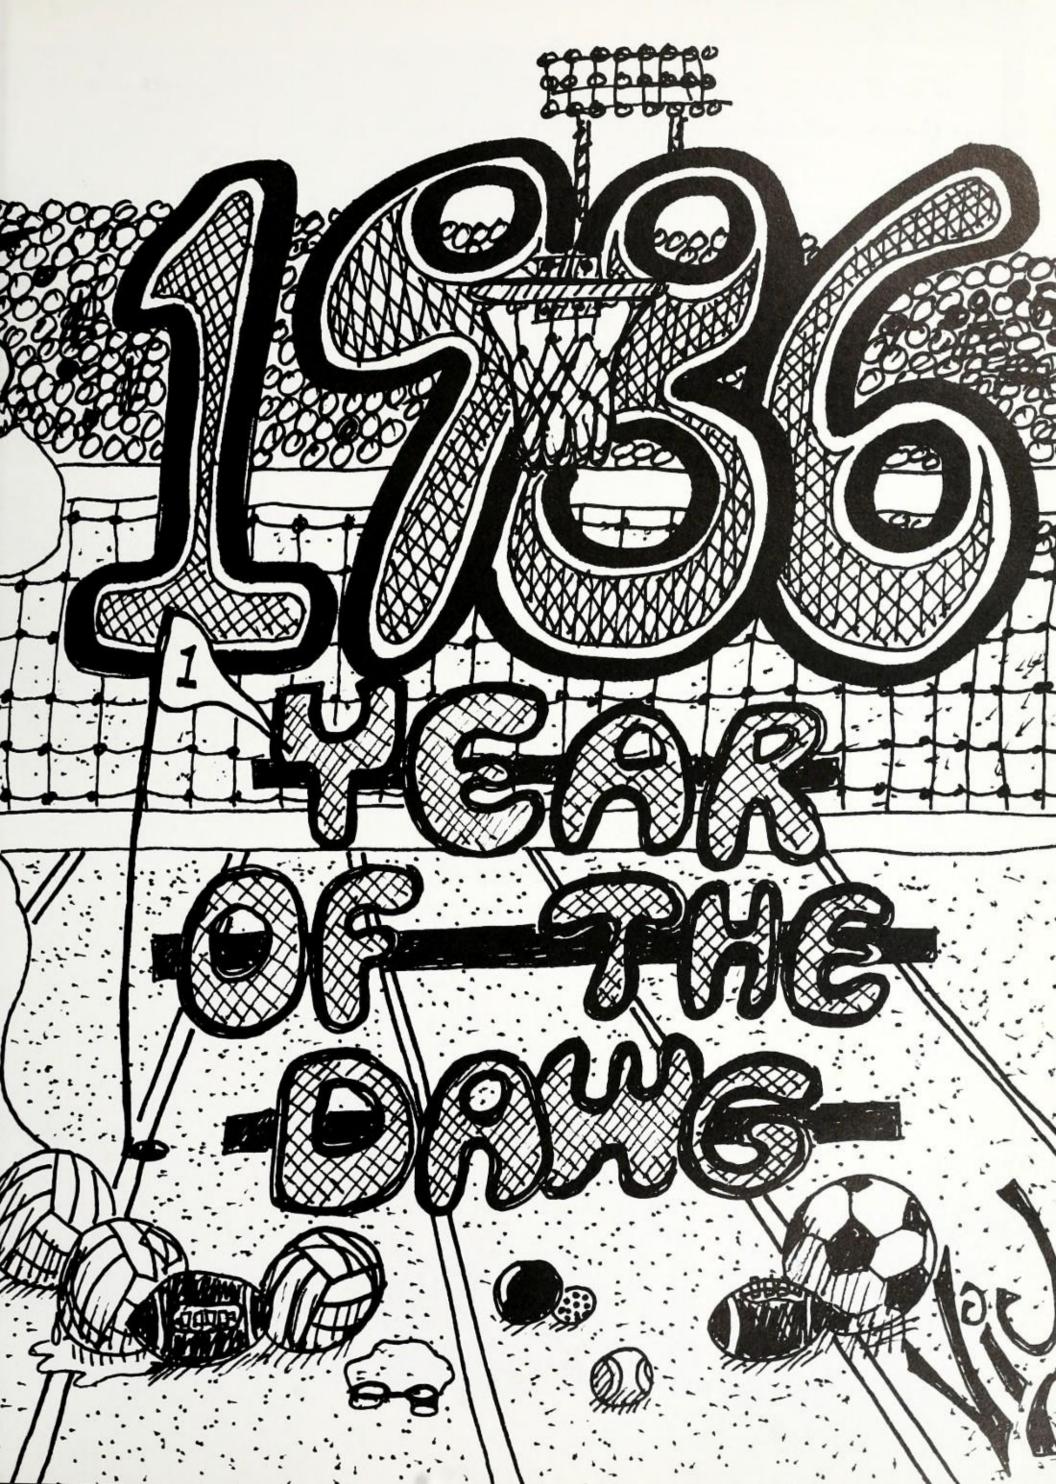

Besides playing and practicing in school sports, a lot of athletes work out elsewhere. Captain of the volleyball team, JU-LIE WESTHOLDER said, "I play as much volleyball as possible. It goes way beyond school participation."

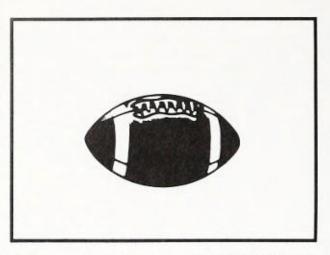

The pressure of winning gets the player's adrenalin flowing which makes them want to win. All-around athlete ELLIE BAL-DWIN states, "I love pressure!!! Being up on the mound with bases loaded, up by one, with a full count . . . my mind's on one thing only; to strike her out!"

What would all of these athletes be doing if they didn't have these athletics in which to participate? All-around athlete CHAR-ENE FRANKLIN said, "I would probably spend a good portion of my free time watching cartoons. Playing a sport gives me something to do and a sense of accomplishment."

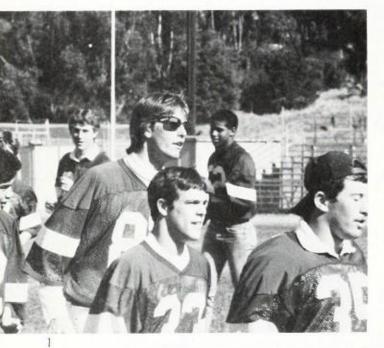

Sports are not all fun and games. It takes a lot of time and effort on behalf of the players and coaches. It's more than just competing, as All-Leaguer JON BAKER puts it, "It's the best learning experience I have ever encountered in my school years."

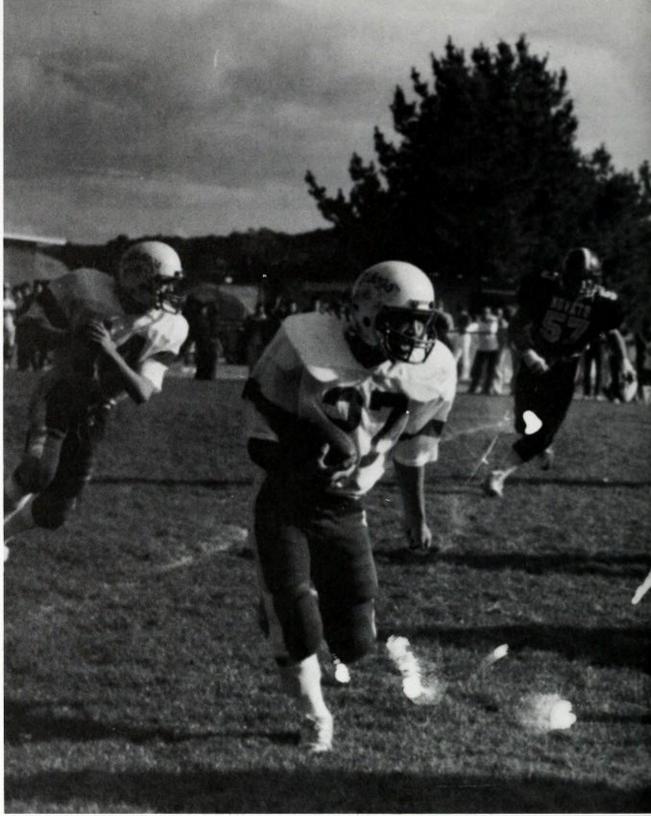

- 1. "Hey you guys, what do ya say we stick with football?" Jon Baker says to Lucito Umbay and Louie Nave as they watch their teammates do the Pee Wee Shuffle.

BULLDOGS SHOW LEADERSHIP

This year's varsity football team was blessed with many outstanding leaders. These leaders not only impressed their parents with their athletic abilities, but they were respected and looked up to by their teammates. They inspired the underclass players with their intensity, determination, oride and most of all, their positive attitudes. Some of the members of this elite group were:

ON BAKER -First team all league offensive tight end and the Eric Wheeler big play award.

GARY JACOBS -First team all league defensive line backer, team's most outstanding player award and the Doctor Cook outstanding defensive player award.

OHN MANNION -All league honorable mention quarterback and the M.V.P. award.

ANGUS McCLURE -Second team all league tackle and the Rusty Ghi-lotti outstanding offensive lineman award.

MARK MYNHIER -First team all league offensive running back and the Scott Duncan most inspirational player award.

MIKE PERRI -Second team all league defensive tackle.

"The 1985 varsity football season was an exciting one for the Bulldog team. We played a scrappy, team-oriented brand of football that earned the respect of our opponents. We finished the season with a 6-4 record that included thrilling victories and dissappointing defeats. Throughout the season, we became a close-knit family of players and coaches. Through the year we played one-hundred percent effort, pride, determination and for this we held our heads high!"

Surprising Season

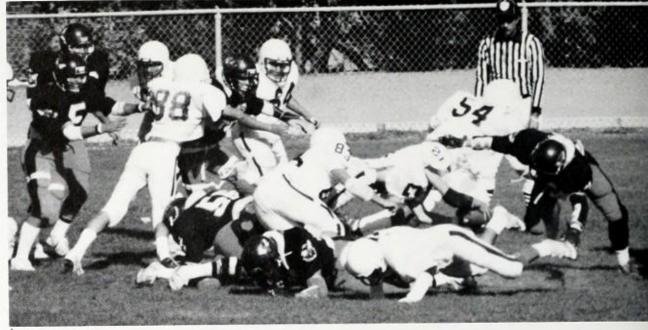

This year, our J.V. football team had more than its share of problems during the 1985 season, but it was apparent that we came together as a team in the end. We won our last two games with authority and finished the season with a league record of 4-3. It was an admirable job by Coach Ross Bracken, who throughout most of the season was without aid during practice. On game days, he was assisted by Coaches A.J. Wilson and Ron Patrick.

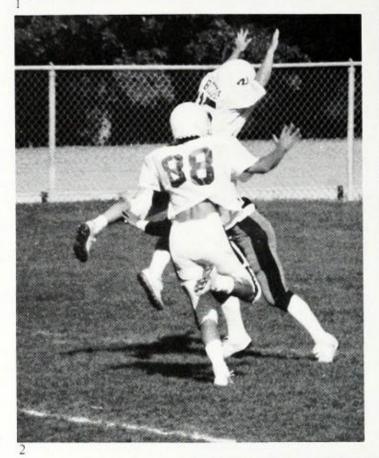

Before the season started, the mutual feeling of the team was that we had the talent to "sweep" the league. Conflicting attitudes and too many individual players prevented us from achieving our goal. However, we did learn the importance of playing together as a team, and we will bounce back to championship caliber football next year.

Freshman Go 5-2

The freshman football team finished second place in the MCAL this year with a 5-2 record. Jason Blomquist, one of the two captains said, "We played well and it was an action packed season." He also said, "The high point of the season was our victory over the Marin Catholic Wildcats." The Bulldogs were really up for that game and they played error free football.

The freshman team was led by Quarterback Roger Sweeny, who was a great asset to the team. He was a good scrambler and had the strength to break tackles. The two other leaders of the team were the Captains, Jason Blomquist and Joey Ciatti. They brought the team's morale up and inspired the team to really want to play football.

Lady Bulldogs Dare to be Different

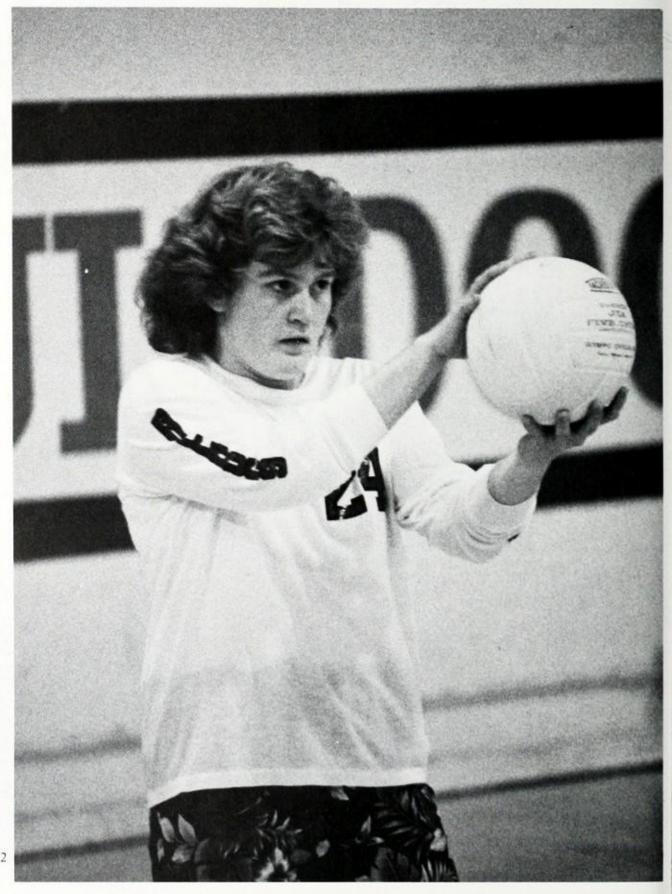

The Lady Bulldogs had a new look this year. Wild flower shorts made the Bulldogs stand out above the rest. This unique look inspired everyone on the team. Mixed feelings came from the crowd and from players and coaches of the other teams, but that didn't stop the Bulldogettes.

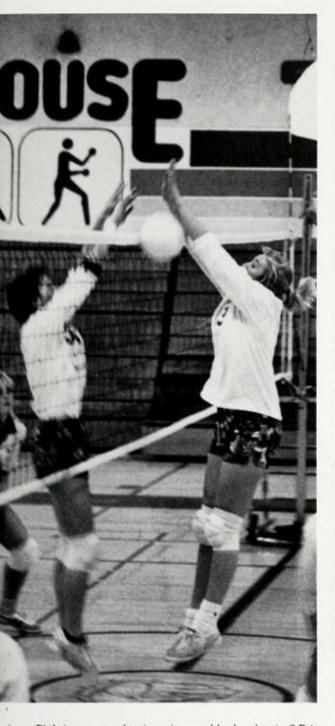

Although the team was young, they had a lot of experience. A majority of the players had played the previous nine months in USVBA. With only five returning seniors and two returning juniors from last year's team, the happy Bulldogs managed to make it to the MCAL playoffs.

The night of the playoffs was also the night that the MCAL All-League players were announced. The Lady Bulldogs had five players that were honored. Making first team were players Julie Westholder and Krista Wuertz; Second-team players were Tracy Tipping and honorable mention was Mia Bernt and Fontaine Segerquist. The team captain, Julie Westholder, said "I think the team will dominate MCAL next year. I wish them the best of luck. They are young, but very experienced."

The Lady Bulldogs had an MCAL record of 9-5. Their overall record was 14-8. They took fourth place in MCAL.

J.V. SPIKES INTO ACTION

The season started out with close wins and losses, but the players were enthusiastic. The J.V. Volleyball team had many returning and experienced players along with many new and rising players. Returning from last year were Maria Siatos, Rosie Tuatagaloa, Vicki Kelpsh, Lisa Bandettini, Jenny Peacock, Elise Youmans, and Sara Anderson. With these players and coach Bob Hess, the team was able to put together a skillful lineup. The first year players quickly learned the needed skills of volleyball and performed them well. Kerry Barthel, Paula March, and Young Won Kang, who were surprising newcomers, showed their quick skill and ability to play the game.

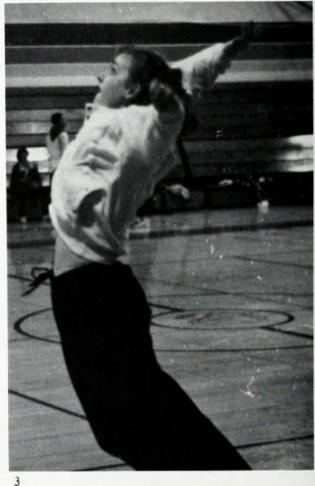

With the leading first string players blocking shots and spiking effectively, the team was a challenge to any competitor. They showed their determination by fighting for every point until the game came to its conclusion. Just by watching them, they proved to be a very coordinated team.

Though they didn't finish the season with a perfect record, the players were pleased with their performances.

Finishing with a 5-7 record, the team placed fourth in the MCALs, and went on to the North Coast Finals. The underclassmen were a strong part of the starting team as were the seniors. The underclassmen will be the backbone of the team in years to come. The Frosh-Soph team did very well and came in second place with a record of 10-2."

This year the San Rafael Varsity Soccer team had to overcome many obstacles. Although the Bulldogs didn't finish in the top four, and their record wasn't statistically impressive, they proved that they could compete with any team in the league. Injuries plagued the Bulldogs all season with the loss of several key players at different times. Varsity soccer coach, Peter Green states, "Next year we have the merging of the very talented sophomores and juniors, and I'm convinced that San Rafael soccer in the very near future is going to become a real force." Coach Green would also like to congratulate a few Bulldogs who made M.C.A.L. All-league: Ricky Garner-1st Team; Steve Jones and Mike Stover-2nd Team; and Vahid Sarrafan-Honorable Mention.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

The Bulldog's Varsity Basketball Team enjoyed one of the most successful season in its history. Led by unanimous First-team All-League pick, Jon Baker, the team finished the campaign with a 21-6 mark. The 21 victories are of note because this year's ballclub was the first San Rafael team to win 20 games or more.

Along side Baker, who ended the year as the league's second-leading scorer, the Bulldogs also placed three other players on the all-league team. Junior guard Bill Archer, who was second in the league in free throw shooting and second on the team in scoring, and senior point guard Bob Archer were named to the Second-Team, while power forward Ken Shepherd, a valuable inside player for the Bulldogs, received Honerable Mention.

But the Bulldogs talent didn't stop there, as they had the deepest and most talented bench in the MCAL. Without this bench strength, the Bulldogs obviosly wouldn't have had a successful season, the help at guard came from senior John Mannion, senior Don Dugdale, junior Drew Miller and sophomore Bob Aldridge, while up front the depth was provided by seniors Robert Read, Wes Sitchler, Mark Lakeman and the young Andrew "Fido" Fedeli, a junior who was struck down late in the season by a tragic arm injury. Crowd favorite Pedro ripol, a transfer student from Spain, provided physiological help through "MENTALIZING."

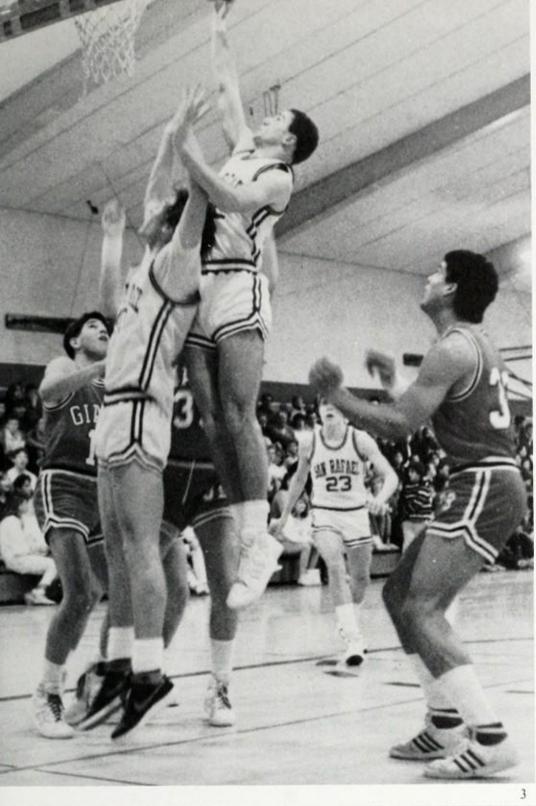

The Bulldogs, who finished second in the league with an 11-3 record did many things that San Rafael teams had not done in a while. First of all, they won their first pre-season tournament on 20 years (the Antioch Tournament). We also beat Drake! Halting the Pirate's home winning streak after nine yaers. Out of nine years, San Rafael had only beaten Drake once until this year. Though the year did end on a down note, the unforgettable play-off loss to Tam, the Bulldog's hard work and success will not be forgotten soon. The hard work and smarts of Coach Bret Tovani will always bring good results. Without his influence the team would probably not have enjoyed the success it did.

M.C.A.L. CHAMPS

The J.V. boys' basketball team completed the season with a fantastic 11-3 record to take the M.C.A.L. championship. Everyone on the team contributed to the team's success. There were many different personalities on the team ranging from Angus McClure's over-aggressive play to Jason "Nugget" Good's inspirational attitude.

Coach Dan Dixon was a real motivating factor to help reach championship goals. The high point of the season was defeating Drake at their own gym to clinch the championship.

FROSH GO 11-3

The freshmen basketball team had a successful year with many new accomplishments. They ended the year with an 11-3 record and took second in the MCAL. The highpoint of the year was the victory over San Marin when they won by 16 points. Jason Blomquist and Roger Sweeney both set records in scoring. Roger Sweeney had a total of 450 points and Jason Blomquist had a total of 370 points. The coaches this year were Bud Smith and Clarence Dugdale. They offered the team support and were great influences on the team's successful season.

1. "It's my ball," says Jason Blomquist.

2. Andy Capdarest skies for two points.

The Lady Bulldogs had a late start this season with only five pre-season games. Other teams went into the season with approximately twelve games. A change of coaching took place which set the Bulldogs behind. Mike Diaz, a varsity coach veteran, took over the coaching job for the team. This was the first time that Diaz coached a girls team. "We had a slow start, but towards the end of the season I saw a lot of improvement," said Diaz.

The Lady Bulldogs were also a young team. The team consisted of only two seniors, eight juniors, and two sophomores. Returning players were Charene Franklin, Julie Westholder, Ellie Baldwin, Debbie LaFranchi and Carolina Katz. San Rafael had two second team all-league players this season, Charene Franklin and Debbie LaFranchi.

Next year's team looks very promising, with only two players leaving. The team will have the talent and the experience of playing well together. There will be a good chance for a playoff spot for the Lady Bulldogs, next season. Good Luck!

The freshmen girls basketball team's preseason games were rather slow, but fortunately that only made us more competitive and much more aggressive during the actual season.

The team worked hard and put a lot of effort and time into their games. The other teams started taking us more seriously. During mid-season we began to really stir up some action giving us a total of 5 game wins. Head coach Bruce McFhael, and assistant Coach John Campeaw gave us a lot of support which added to the overall performance of our team.

Paula March, Susy Wiser, Rachael Villaseñor, and the other 14 members will be returning next year. Tracy Fitt, a starting linebacker, said "We had fun playing as well as learning; we learned to play as a team and not just for ourselves!!"

After our first game the San Rafael J.V. Girls Basketball team knew they were in for a very long season. We made it through our 14 games with quite a record. Once we even, miraculously, made it to overtime!! We all remember that exciting game, with all those shouts from the bench like "No it's the other basket!!" and "Get in their FACE!" We had a great season!

Coach Mills, that wonderful man, made fantastic last second strategies and helped us to keep our famous "team spirit" up. To prove my point I must add that after all, we only lost half our games in our gym ... the other half we lost away! Much thanks to Coach Mills!!

The San Rafael wrestling team finished the season at 4-1, losing only to San Marin by a close margin. Joe Paz, Tony Buoncristiani, Alex Quezada, Dave Gordon, Louis Nave, Tak Horiuchi all made it to the North Coast Section. Tak Horiuchi and Dave Gordon both took MCAL Championships.

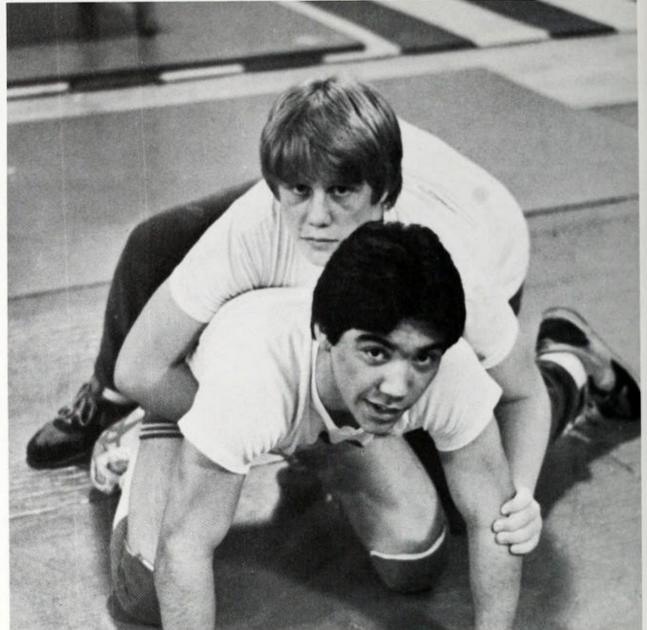

The discipline and technique of head coach, Gary LaPore, and assistant coach, Jeff Baldwin, gave the team an extra edge. The stat girls not only kept stats, but they also kept the wrestlers on their toes.

Wrestling has taken a dramatic turnaround from mediocre to a top contender in the MCAL. Next year's team has a promising future with talents such as: Tak Horiuchi, Joe Ciatti, Mike Delgado, Greg Burgess, Adam Hurley, Luis "Master of Disaster" Quezada, Carlos "The King of Sting" Escobedo, Rafael "The Sak" Sakellariou, Leonard "Super Soph" Howard, and Lone Senior Bobby "BC" Contini.

A quote that should be running through the mind of a wrestler is: "You must have the hear, the mind, and the guts to be a S.R. wrestler. For months these men would go through harsh practice and long matches. You must respect your opponent, but you mustn't fear them." say Mike Fennel.

WHAT MAKES AN OUTSTANDING ATHLETE?

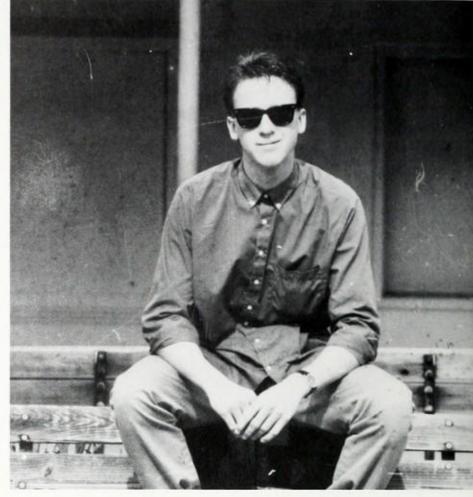

An outstanding athlete is not only a excellent athlete, but he is one that can lead and bring a team together with his effort and actions.

A lot of hard work and dedication came from these players. They put in many hours afterschool and a lot of effort and determination.

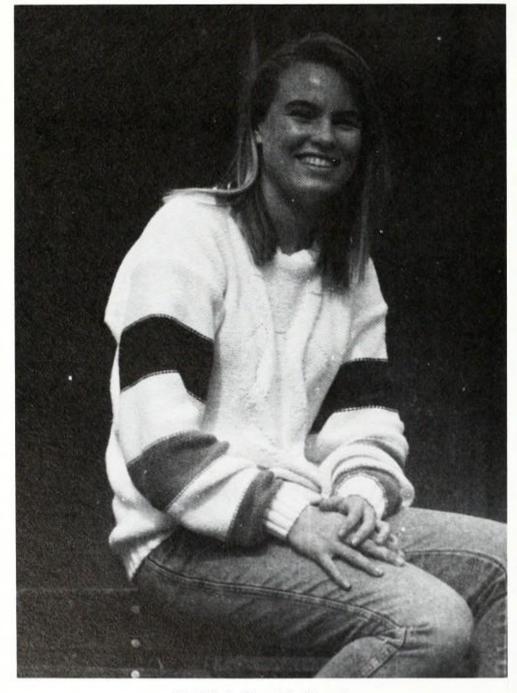

Being an outstanding athlete went beyond athletic ability. Leadership and support from their fans and other players helped these athletes reach their goals. They were not only an inspiration to their teammates, but they were and inspiration to all who saw them.

All these outstanding athletes whould be recognized for their outstanding ability. Whether it was football or golf, each put in just as much work as the other.

Academics

The faculty members and students who appear in the following pages were truly the ones to watch. They helped us learn and excel in many different ways.

Those who deserve the most credit are the administrators, counselors, teachers, aides, secretaries, clerks, and janitors. Dr. Collins, Mr. Rideout and Mr. Riesen kept academia under control. Aides helped teachers and students. Secretaries and clerks kept the school organized and located students to give them the lunches left at home. Teachers benefitted our lives by teaching us important skills and how to learn, think and grow. Our janitors deserved credit for picking up after irresponsible litterers and keeping the campus spotless.

With the aid of all these special people, a new breed of students was produced. These students were the conquerers of academics. They excelled in inter- and outer- school activities. CSF members showed their skills in academics through outstanding grades and tutoring other students. Both music students and academic decathalon members spent much of their time afterschool studying, practicing, and mastering. One special section in this division recognizes those students who were spectacular.

With all these incredible people a promising future is assured.

TEACHERS ARE REALLY HUMAN

MYTH: Teachers were never teenagers.

They don't eat.

They never leave the campus.

All they do on weekends is correct papers.

They have no feelings.

FACT: None of the above is true about teachers.

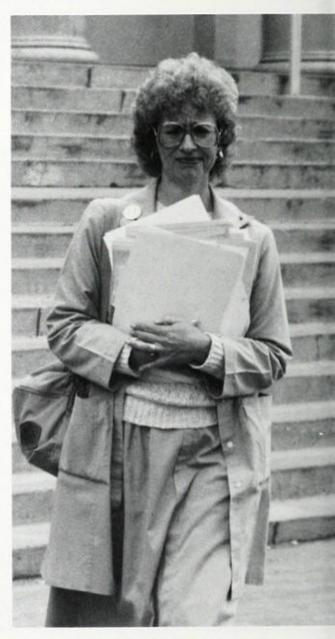

As one may believe any of the above myths, it must finally be exposed that teachers really are humans. One may think that behind the pair of glasses or inside the pair of shoes that calls role from the front of the room is a machine. This "machine" may give bad grades, send students to the office, or just hand out homework at an unconquering rate. Well, sorry to spoil any hypothesis, that machine-like mass is really a human.

This human really does eat, goes to the restroom, and even has a family and friends! Surprised? Although some teachers seem formal, strict, and unemotional while others are more open, laugh, and are more relaxed, they are all capable of having a good time. No matter what personality they "wear" at school, teachers have various ways of enjoying life like other humas do. They may go bike riding, run or jog, go out to a movie or dinner, meet a fellow teacher at a football or basketball game, or spend time with their family.

It has been discovered that teachers are just as human as everyone else. They even have feelings. Students may be schocked in disbelief about this study. It is proven that teachers take their jobs seriously and therefore act just like any other working person at another job. As in any career, some are more serious than others and each teacher has his or her own way of working.

Behind what you may think are the glowing red eyes, the fire-breathing nostrils, and the lips that always seem to produce the words "1000 pages due tomorrow" is really a caring person with real emotions. Students must realize that teachers go grocery shopping, laugh at Eddie Murphy jokes, cry at sad movies, or love someone, like a husband, or something like ice cream. Out of all the teachers tested in this nation-wide study, 100% were proven to be constructed of living human flesh and have emotions. (This statistic includes the .00012% error factor involved.) Students should respect their teachers' seriousness and remember that when some teachers were teenagers, they have done ever crazier things than students do

WHEN IN DOUBT, ANSWER "d" ...

Before the six competitors, one alternate, and coach assembled in the Novato High School cafeteria on the morning of Saturday, November 16, 1985, much preparation, research, and time had been involved. Seniors Andreas Schultz and Ian Stoba (team captain) represented the Honors party, Chris Hanzlik and Dascha Inciarte were the Scholastic delegates, Shana Bagley and John Mertz were the representatives for the varsity team, and junior Joel Cummings as alternative for varsity. They studied tests from last year's decathalon, researched for hours, wrote and memorized speeches on this year's topic of immigration, read and discussed Alan Paton's moving novel CRY THE BELOVED COUNTRY, and reviewed text books and magazines to aid the further understanding of the areas on which they were to be tested. After a quick history lesson on world geography and WW I through WW II with Mr. Byer, biology review with Mrs. Stevens, chemistry and physics with Mr. Stevens, and many late night cram sessions, the "decathletes" were seemingly ready to compete in the 1985 Marin County Academic Decathalon.

A medley of "good lucks" echoed throughout the halls as nicely-dressed competitors from Marin Catholic, North Bay Secondary, Novato, Redwood, San Marin, Drake, Terra Linda, and San Rafael proceeded to their designated testing rooms clutching their Decathalon folders. The participants' pencils and pen scribbled and erased nervously as they were completing their first of ten tests. They were given forty minutes to successfully write a thousand point essay on three topic quotes on immigration. Then throughout the next six hours tests of academic strength, designed not to be finished, on mathematics, science, social studies, economics, language and literature, and fine arts were given and speeches and interviews were performed.

Participants and friends gathered in the gym to complete the 1985 USAD Super Quiz, composed of questions about immigration history and laws. As the minutes ticked by, Redwood developed a substantial lead with Marin Catholic in second, and Terra Linda and San Rafael tied for third. All of a sudden, San Rafael began scoring fives. San Rafael and Redwood's scores were double checked. It was a 41 to 41 tie! Chris Hanzlik and a Redwood competitor battled it out with pencils and brains to answer the five point "sudden death" question. An inch of worry ran through San Rafael's minds, Chris had only scored two out of ten points during the event, but encouraging cheers, a bit of luck, and a few smart brain cells triggered him to choose the answer to "What was the purpose of the Contract Labor Law of 1864?" with "d. to pay an immigrant passage to the U.S. for a contract wage". The tension increased as the final moment arrived. San Rafael-correct, Redwood-incorrect. Both Coach Stevens and Joel made Olympic-record breaking leaps from the stands and the San Rafael team, as well as a few new friends, mobbed Chris with congratulatory hugs and screams of Spirit Band received perhaps the most publicity of all the music departments because it was the "most visable" band. The band prepped up many sports events with music that got the crowd moving.

Jazz Ensemble played for the fourth annual Big Band Dance this year featuring music from the 30's and 40's, and on Sunday, March 2nd., the ensemble played in the Carnelian Room in San Fransisco, which was a great honor for us.

Concert Band woke many people in the morning, especially those in the surrounding neighborhood. It was not the largest music dept., but it was one of the most enjoyable.

Choir started off a little apprehensively because the students wondered if Mr. Johnson would be able to successfully lead the choir in place of Mr. Jones (who retired last year). Their doubts were soon put to rest; He took the students to Los Angeles and performed with them in numerous concerts during the holiday season.

Club4+ Organizations

As the year progressed students found themselves reaching into their pockets to support all sorts of clubs and organizations. They helped the Quebec Club and Close-Up make their dreams of visiting Quebec and Washington, D.C. come true. Of course other clubs always seemed to have some master ploy up their sleeves. The Computer Club tricked us into buying their lollipops which fizzed in the middle. Their sale turned out to be successful. The Ra-Ravas made a gracious effort to help the food bank during Christmas vacation, and the Ski Club planned a skiing adventure. There was also a new organization called S.A.D.D. (Students Against Drunk Driving) who sent out a message to all students not to Drink and Drive.

Let's not forget the media! KSRH, the radio station, brought music over the airwaves. The Red & White newspaper updated the students on what was happening at school. And, of course, the Searchlight which brings this yearbook to you!!

An important lesson that came out of joining a club was that friendships were made and people were brought closer together and were able to work together as a team. Clubs and Organizations gave the students an opportunity to involve their time, effort, energy, and themselves in an activity which they could enjoy and feel a part of a team.

The Quebec Experience

For the sixth year, the Quebec Club offered S.R.H.S. students a chance to participate in a meaningful, cultural exchange. Twenty-five of our students spent twelve days in a small town in the Canadian Province of Quebec. This gave the students a chance to experience a different language and a different culture. This exchange was much more than a tourist trip or a guided tour through parts of Canada; it was a unique experience

To raise the needed funds, the students took part in a number of fundraising activities. A couple of these included washing cars and taking inventory at Macy's.

Yes, it was work but in spite of it all, and because of it all, we loved it. Quebec was a great opportunity but better yet it was a very educational experience for everyone. We would like to give a special thanks to Mme Goff-Tuttle for putting in all the time she did.

German Club

The German Club is a group of students sho meet every Thursday under observation of our adviser Mrs. Nimeh, and the leadership of our presidents Oliver Ewald and Helen Braakman. These students are interested in Germany, its language, and its culture. Apart from weekly meetings, the German Club exploits German restaurants throughout the county together with the TL-German Club. We also tried our talent in gardening, and dream of one day getting enough money for a ski trip. The German Club was also the club that thought of the great well-loved idea of carnations on Valentine's Day.

Still to go, we will be having a hopefully successful picnic on Angel Island, again together with the TL-German Club, and we hope to attend the International Dinner hosted by the French Club.

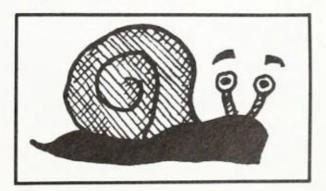

French Club

The French Club was an organization of new ideas and good friends. The club's homecoming float, which was a giant escargot (or snail) with some of the members dancing around with chef's suits on, won the Club's Float Competition at the Homecoming Parade. At the Holiday Faire, the group raffled off cokes.

The main highlight of the year was the hosting of the international dinner, a pot luck dinner held every year, together with all the other foreign language clubs.

We have done many things with the help of Mme. Goff-Tuttle and the energy deriving from new friendships. We all hope that next year the club will have new members and more and more ideas.

Los Picaros

Los Picaros was the SRHS Spanish Cub. We met weekly to plan our various activities, which included: potluck dinners, the selling of cascarones (hollow egg shells stuffed with confetti) at the Holiday Faire, Christmas Caroling in Spanish, and the annual International Dinner. Many of our fundraisers were for the banquet we had at the end of the year. Basically we enjoyed having a good time. This year was especially important because we brought the school together by raising money for the Mexican Earthquake Relief Fund to help the people of Mexico City. This year's presidents were Tony Buoncristiani and Elisa Guthertz.

Chess Club

The Chess Club of 1985-1986 consisted of seven members headed by Mr. Belden. The club met weekly meetings were held in LA 214 to discuss and expand the horizons in the world of Chess. The game of chess is an old one originating during the medieval times. The interest in the game has survived and grown through the centuries. Since the game is mostly an intellectual one and not requiring much money, no fundraisers were needed or held. The members supplied what was needed, as far as playing pieces and boards were concerned. This seemed to be the only prerequisite for membership besides an interest in the old and everlasting game of chess.

The Computer Club of 1985-86 of S.R.H.S. was newly revised by installing Apple Computers. The members met every Thursday in the Computer Room. Membership in the club was not restricted to only people who knew about computers. KFRC radio station had held a contest which enabled the winner to receive new Apple Computers. S.R.H.S. won the contest and is now the owner of the new Apple Computers. These computers were used by the members of design useful programs and computer games which were open for use by anyone. The Computer Club may have been small in membership, but the few people who belonged definitely made the most of their resources and expanded their horizons in the growing world of Computers.

Close-Up: A Monumental Experience

Close-Up is a nation wide program for students to experience the governmental system first hand. Students from all over the country gather in Washington D.C. to exchange ideas on local and factual issues.

The Close-Up foundation provides experts in several areas to speak about current events during the week. The group attended seminars in different government buildings around the city. The group spent one day on Capital Hill exploring the Library of Congress, the Supreme Court, and the Capital Building.

Close-Up was a great chance to make new friends from around the country. This year's Close-Up group was from Northern California, Tennessee, and Arkansas.

S.A.D.D.

S.A.D.D. - Students Against Drunk Driving is a group of students who have gained their recognition throughout the country. Their purpose is to prevent students from drinking and driving and to find an alternative way of getting home, such as: calling a parent, or have a friend stay sober.

Hopefully soon there will be a TEEN - SADD Hotline which will be in operation. S.A.D.D. hopes to gain more members to make their program more productive.

Ra-Ravas

Ra-Ravas, are group of students usually girls primarily concerned with making the community in which we live better. They are a service organization that aids community through service projects. This year we have aided the S.R. Public Foundation, Sunny Hills, Marin Family Service Agency, Air-Lifts International and other similar organizations. One member of Ra-Ravas described the group, "We're all very close and we have a lot of fun together.

THE DRAMA CLUB

The performing arts are an important part of the culture of our world and of our school. The Drama Club serves to support our school's dramatic and musical productions as well as to increase the awareness, among the student body, of the performing arts and their great benefits. In order to accomplish these things and to attend local productions of plays and musicals, ourselves, the Drama Club has found it necessary to raise funds. This year we sold both pocket calendars that we had printed with a San Rafael High School Bulldog's emblem and singing telegrams at the Holiday Faire. By the end of this year, we hope to be a registered troupe with the Thespian Society, a national dramatic arts organization.

Bump! Set! Spike!

At first, we were uncertain about forming a boys' volleyball team here at San Rafael High School. We sat around asking ourselves "Why?" Then Mark Bandettini, with a half-puzzled look on his face, he uttered "Why not"? At that moment, a dynasty was born.

Not only did we play some interesting volleyball, but we proved ourselves to the volleyball establishment of America.

R.H.S. ski club had a few close calls this year with arious contractors, but in the end, everything orked out fine. Even though I worked on our naual end of the semester ski trip 3 weeks before thool started whenever you're working with a large roup of people and dealing with large sums of soney, there's bound to be a few mix rips, but with the advice and help from Mr. Riesen, this year's trip as better than ever. Two days at Squaw with plenty of snow and the temperature in the fifties guaranted good skiing. Skiing on a Super Bowl Weekend ade things even better. We lodged at the Squaw alley Inn, across the street from the gondolas make g it a short walk to the lift lines.

ome of us caught a show of "Spies Like Us" which e all regretted! but, by far, this year's try was the est so far and I'd like to thank all those skiers who ent and special thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Hourigan.

The Foreign Auto Club and Tailgating Society is currently enjoying its second year of excellence at S.R.H.S. We are an organization which had many activities in the just past school year. Among these club activities were tailgate parties at Cal., Stanford, and our beloved San Rafael High School. We also will be providing the library with a subscription to ROAD AND TRACK MAGAZINE. The primary goal was to enlighten our dreary school year with a little fun.

We are clearly recognized on campus by our club colors of inferno orange and naval blue, and are well known for our famous guacomole recipe. Membership is open to all! You don't have to have a license, a car, a foreign car, or be foreign. Although members do have an obligation to be active, have fun and ...

AN EDITOR'S DREAM

When the sixth period class first congregated on that hot day in September, I knew right away that we were going to turn out one terrific yearbook. Little did I know that my assumption was accurate. Those yearbookers took to those layouts, like ants to a picnic. Soon terms such as; copy, pica, cropping, column width, and white space all seemed to blend into their everyday jargon. It was simply beautiful. An Editor's dream.

Then suddenly I woke up and had to come to grips with facing reality. Although I never held a machine gun to any of the staff's heads during a deadline . . . I seriously could have. Then again, I wouldn't want to confuse them, they probably wouldn't know which deadline I was referring to. For that matter neither would I. It always seemed as if we had an ongoing deadline, and there was no end in sight. This year our theme was 'The Ones To Watch' and I think you will understand why as you turn the pages of the 1986 Searchlight.

We changed the course of yearbook history! We broke traditions, explored new fields, followed patterns from the past, threw it all together and Voilá...a quality book appeared.

Some of the changes that occured you might have already noticed. For one the book is bigger in size and there are fewer number of pages. Where did those pages go? In the supplement. Time unravels many surprises and one is that we discovered a supplement from as far back as 1966. As you turn the pages you might have stumbled over the Table of Contents, one which has not been in the yearbook for quite a while.

When we sent in our color section (Theme and Seniors) late, of course, we were surprised to hear that the yearbook company, Herff Jones, was so impressed with those first pages that they wanted to print 50 extra books as example books around the country. This made us want to live up to that reputation and make the rest as good as those first few pages. In the Senior Section we put quotes under the pictures and in each section we wanted to add something special. We used the computer program, a system of which only an elite 5% nationally use. This program helped tremendously.

I would like to thank the following for their outstanding work this year. These people put in a tremendous amount of overtime and they deserve a free yearbook and more credit than I could ever give them:

SHANA BAGLEY: To someone who entered the class with no knowledge of the makings of a yearbook. Considering with what you had to work with, I give you a standing ovation. CHRIS BATTLE: Well "Mr. Business Manager", even though you always came in late from going out to get something to eat, you did a mahvalous job, dahling.

JIM GILLEPSIE: Our happen'n yearbook representative, Thank you for giving us support throughout the year.

DAVE MAGLIOCCO: You can call this book the "Dave Magliocco Yearbook". After all you filled all our white space with your artwork! Too bad we don't get free yearbooks. The cover looks great! Thanks for all your hard work and having to listen to everyones ideas. AMY MCGRATH: Not too bad for a beginner. Thanks for helping me in times of trouble and for all the overtime you put in. ANASTASIA MEDRANO: Who went way beyond the call of duty. What would I have done without your ability to fill in copy blocks? Thank you for staying with me and the others on those late nights during deadlines. MR. MILLS: "Well It looks like it's coming together." We did it! Thank you for helping me in times of decisions and handling deadlines. Best of luck next year.

MICHAEL RIETH: Our very own computer whiz. What would we have done with out your expertise? Oh, about those mistakes that YOU made and I found, well I won't be there next year to catch them. Thank you, you made life a lot easier this year . . . well, most of the time. FONTAINE SEGERQUIST: The only person I know who takes an interest in computer layouts! I don't like them, remember? Good luck next year - Ha Ha.

PHOTOGRAPHERS: To Victor Escobedo, Dave Giudice, and Ed Rudolph: "We need pictures!" must be imprinted in your heads by now. Well, even though we hasseled you with all our problems, you always came through. Thank you.

To the rest of the staff: I would thank everyone personally, but obviously I can't. I enjoyed working with you, even though I got tired of hearing my name. It has been fun, but lets not do it again unless it's under different circumstances. To all of you: You all sow a very promising future in the world of yearbook making - good luck to those of you who plan to stay on next year?

This year we set goals to make this year's yearbook the best, and although we had out ups and downs, we made it. It has been an experience. I have one more thing to say, and then I'll go . . . I never want to live through another deadline AGAIN?

San Rafael was one out of only a few of the country to have a student-operated radio station. KSRH, was a non-profit station that was run by over thirty "D.J.s" and funded by the A.S.B. and patrons from the community.

This year KSRH changed to a formatted radio station with the theme of "Apple Pie Rock" in the hopes of reaching a wider listening audience.

Red & White

Once again, The Red & White staff held their radition of excellence by informing and enteraining the students of San Rafael High School.

This year, the staff printed seven issues which were funded by advertisers, the administration, and the A.S.B. The students ran the newspaper in every aspect. They wrote the articles, did all the photography, assembled the paper and distributed them.

Fony Markwick, Feature Editor, stunned the world of journalism with his clever and someimes controversial column. News Editor, Dave Follen, winner of the coveted silver Sow Award, discovered new dimensions in the reporting of news. Jenny Hudgins, Editorial Editor, began her illustrious career as a Red & White editor this year. Jeff Rosenberg and Eric Reed, the infamous Focus Editors, both used their keen insight on life to bring you a provocative look at just about everything. Brian Wilbur, Sports Editor, used his swimming skills to survive in the rough world of sports journalism. And Chris Hanzlik, the Photography Editor, can finally be called the Slim Whitman of photography. Over all, it was a great year.

555 FRANCISCO

Well here we are at the end of another yearbook. Somehow we managed to finish this incredible project of putting a yearbook together. For seven months we sorted through endless pictures and went to almost every business in town to find ads. When total frustration and senioritis set in (a deadly combination) we resorted to the class commonly known around here as Sun Tanning 1-2.

Robin, the infamous editor, would complain constantly, but this yearbook would have never gotten out on time if it wasn't for her hard work and dedication. George Mills would get all excited and get into these little work kicks, especially on the final deadline. Then the big man himself would pay us a visit and for one hour or so would take on the whole yearbook himself. We're talking about the one and only Jim Gillespie.

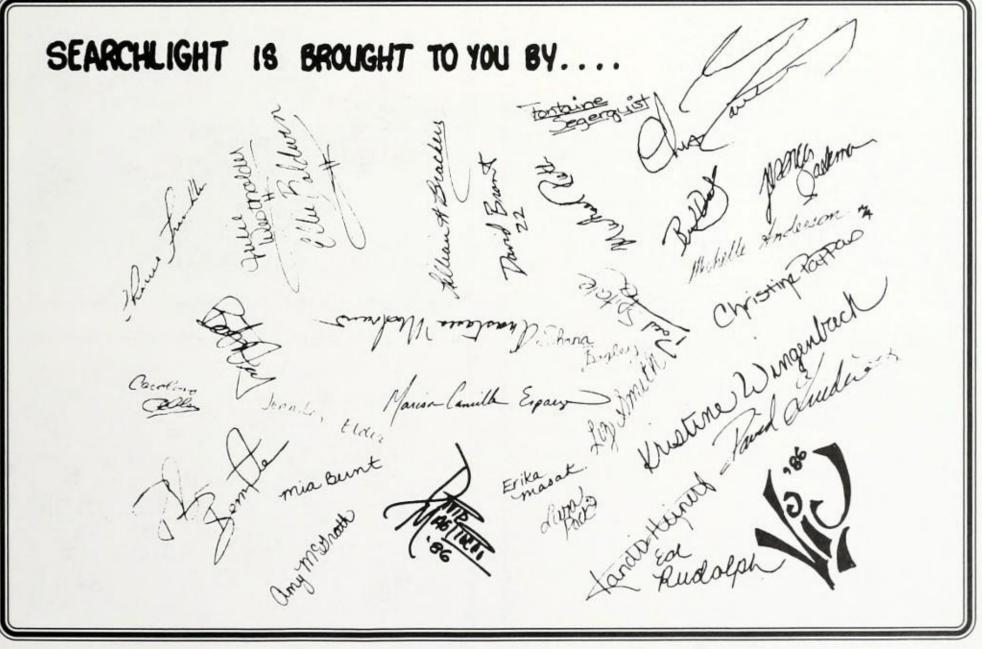

There are some other people who deserve credit also: Lara Pack, Kristine Wingenbach, and Christine Pappas. Without these three helping me with ads, I would have been up a creek. It's amazing how easy old men will buy an ad when persuaded by three beautiful girls. Other thanks go to Sta Medrano, Amy McGrath, Charene Franklin, Victor Escobedo, Mia Bernt, Ellie Baldwin, Julie Westholder, Erika Masak, and the computer man himself Mike (the wannabe genius) Reith. And finally the rest of the Yearbook staff. Thanks.
